

SMITH DEAF TO RUTH'S PLEA

WE WERE AFTER HIM; SUNK S-4, OFFICER ADMITS

"Astute Enemies" in Vicinity, He Says.

Mass., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The coast guard destroyer Paulding was scouting for some 300 rum running vessels gathered off the New England coast on Dec. 17 when it ran down the submarine S-4 near Provincetown, according to testimony given today at the naval court of inquiry. The court is investigating here the loss of the submarine and the failure to rescue any of the 40 men aboard.

Commander Leroy Reinberg, head of the coast guard destroyer squadron for New England and counsel for Lieutenant Commander John Baylis, commander of the Paulding, revealed the rum running activities of his squadron in a report almost confidential in tone. He admitted the presence of the Paulding at Provincetown on the fatal day of sinking.

"We had knowledge that very day that one of the most astute enemies was in those waters."

His S-4 Had Engine Trouble.

Two other witnesses took the stand today. The examination of one, Lieutenant Commander Edmund W. Snyder, commander of the submarine division to which the S-4 was attached, brought forward the suggestion that Lieutenant Commander Roy J. Jones, commanding officer of the S-4, and Lieut. Joseph A. McGlinchey, chief assistant, whose bodies were found yesterday in the engine room with that of a third man, had gone down because of engine trouble just before the S-4 was struck by the Paulding.

Lieut. Frank Worden, commander of the S-4, sister ship of the S-4, testified that, while the S-4, running submerged, could have seen the Paulding approaching for six minutes, it was unable for the Paulding to have observed the submarine for only two minutes before the crash.

Course in Path of Ships.

The witness also admitted that the S-4 was on a course for submarines in the path of ships entering Provincetown harbor from around Cape Cod. While navy charts since 1910, he said, had contained a note warning of the flying of warning signals by submarine tenders while surface vessels were cruising submerged, such practice had not been observed for several years.

Both Lieut. Worden and Lieut. Commander Snyder put into the record the fact that the S-4 was on a high patrol of the coast. Jones of the S-4, whose body, with that of Lieut. McGlinchey, was removed yesterday from the navy yard at Charlestown to be transferred to Arlington National cemetery.

NICARAGUA WAR GETS BACK SEAT AS LINDY LANDS

Dodges Battle Zone; Hailed in Capital.

BY LOUIS ROSENTHAL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 5.—After three hours of suspense today at the marine aviation field, 10,000 people were rewarded by the sight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's silver plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, appearing over the active volcano of Momotombo, and fifteen minutes later the aviator made a perfect landing.

As he stepped from his plane, the Nicaraguans, who are keen hero worshipers, loudly cheered the air hero and it required a great effort on the part of the American marines and National Guard forces to restrain the crowd from entering the field. Marine and National Guard bands played "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the flyer landed.

Welcomed by Officials.

The air envoy received an official welcome from the American chargé d'affaires, Dana G. Munro, and Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs Barones Meneses. The keys of the city of Managua were presented by Mayor José María Celaya. Then Col. Macco, Guich, commander of the marines, and Maj. Rowell, in charge of marine aviation, welcomed the aviator.

Col. Lindbergh then was presented to the official government committee, of which Gen. Emiliano Chamorro is chairman, and seated on the lowered top of an open car, he was escorted through the gaily decorated streets for presentation to President Adolfo Diaz.

Five thousand school children lined the streets, waving American and Nicaraguan flags and shouting words of welcome. The aviator, who was wearing a pair of skates, was given a pair of skates. He wanted to use them, but his father refused.

"No," he said, "the doctors say your heart is not strong. If you skate it may kill you. Keep the skates and when you are well and strong you can go out."

Last night Edward's fear of parental displeasure was overcome by his desire to get to the ice. While his father and mother were in the living room of their home he tucked the skates under his coat and went out the back way.

A few minutes later he collapsed on the ice in Pulaski park. West Park Policeman John Klossowski carried him to the office of the park directors. When a physician arrived Edward was dead.

Chicago Bids for Convention of Democrats

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicago is to make a real effort to obtain the Democratic national convention.

For months the question whether this city actually wanted the big meeting next June dragged along without approaching a definite answer. But a conference yesterday between George E. Brennan, national committeeman for Illinois, and W. R. Davies, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, created an impetus that they believe may accomplish something.

To Take Offer to Washington.

As a result of their talk Chicagoans will go to Washington next week and offer to pay all the expenses of the convention if it is held here, a definite offer of $125,000 being made to the national committee as proof of readiness to do business.

The invitation will be conveyed by Mr. Brennan at the head of a delegation which will include a score or more of the city's Democratic leaders and several representatives of the Association of Commerce. President Davies said he would be unable to make the trip, but he probably will be represented by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. Edward N. Hurley, former chairman of the United States shipping board, who is out of the city now, also will be asked to represent the association.

KING IS SAVED BY SEAT OF PANTS IN SLED CRASH

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Moritz says King Albert of the Belgians was slightly injured in the elbow today in a bobsled accident. King Albert was riding a sled owned by Lord Northesk, who was acting as brakeman. The sled skidded and bumped dangerously at a point known as "Hamrock," and Lord Northesk was thrown from his position.

Dudley Delavigne, another English passenger, pushed himself into Lord Northesk's vacated place, grabbed the king by the seat of the trousers, and dragged his majesty into a position that gave the bobsled a better balance for the rest of the run.

"I was not standing on ceremony," Mr. Delavigne explained later.

"This is the greatest thrill I have ever had, greater than in the war or even motorcycling," said the king later. He said he would like to go faster next time. The injury to his elbow was merely an abrasion.

FIRE TRUCK AND ENGINE CRASH; LIEUTENANT DIES

John R. Jackson, colored, fire department lieutenant attached to engine company No. 19, was killed yesterday when the engine on which he was riding collided with a hook and ladder truck at 35th street and Indiana avenue.

Both vehicles at the time were answering an alarm, later found to be false, from 2429 Indiana avenue. The engine skidded on the snow as it was making a turn and the truck crashed into it. He was 47 years old and lived at 4025 Langley avenue.

The death was the only one in Cook county due to automobile accidents in two days and raised the toll since Jan. 1 to six. Dr. Charles Wright, 59 years old, 6146 Kenmore avenue, a dentist, was seriously injured when he was struck at Sheridan road and Grandville avenue by an automobile driven by Mrs. L. B. Manning, 414 Church street, Evanston.

The entire third floor is being put in readiness for their use. The state department announced today that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would arrive at 4 p. m., Jan. 15.

GOVERNOR ALSO STONY TO GRAY'S INSANITY PLEA

Tilts with Lawyers Making Last Stand.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Clear indication that Gov. Smith will not intervene to save Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray from the electric chair at Sing Sing, to which they must go a week from tonight, was given this afternoon as the governor finished a hearing in which counsel for both the condemned pleaded for a commutation of sentence, or, at the worst, for a reprieve. Officially, the governor reserved decision. Remarks made by him in the course of the hearing, however, indicated that he had not listened with great sympathy to the appeal of Edgar F. Hazleton, counsel for Mrs. Snyder, for mercy on the ground that his client was in a "twilight zone" between sanity and insanity.

Rely on Insanity Plea.

The governor's attitude was much what it had been expected to be, few believing that he would intervene at the present stage to save the convicted slayers of Albert Snyder. Attorneys for neither of the two today sought to deny the guilt of their clients, but both insisted that the mental condition of neither was normal.

When the lawyers had finished their arguments the governor walked from the room with a casual, "Well, the hearing's over." He is expected to give his decision on Monday. But in the course of the hearing he remarked that he "couldn't see that there was any question of sanity here," a hard enough blow to an appeal based solely on the assertion that there was such a question.

$10,000 HUBBARD NECKLACE FOUND IN WASTE BASKET

Investigation for an insurance company last night went to the Boucher millinery shop, at 115 East Oak street, reached into a waste paper basket and pulled out a $10,000 string of pearls which Mrs. William C. Hubbard of Lake Forest had reported lost more than twenty-four hours before.

Mrs. Hubbard entered the store on Wednesday. She removed two strings of pearls, one an imitation and the other the $10,000 necklace, while she had a fitting. She hurried away to fill a luncheon engagement. When she missed the jewelry she called the shop, and the proprietor, Charles Briggs James, announced that the imitation string was found. There was no trace of the other.

After the insurance men made their find two girls employed in the place declared they had looked through the same basket. James, who was present at the final search, said that Mrs. Hubbard must have brushed the pearls into the basket as she left.

sons and where morality was away. He was a metal beam warped by the fire which enveloped him.

Yet, Mrs. Snyder was not responsible because she was abnormal. "I knew she was abnormal the first day I looked in her eyes," he said. "If we were psychiatrists we would say she should have been put in an institution long ago or placed under the care of a physician."

Millard told the governor he knew many people were writing in that the execution should go through.

"That is the old cry for vengeance. Crucify him, stone him, lynch him—the cry of the mob. It is an old cry. It is the cry of the human coyotes demanding a sacrifice. I am sure their howling will not affect the conscientious judgment of your honor."

Prosecutor Is Unswerving.

District Attorney Richard Newcombe, who prosecuted Ruth and Judd, was damning in his address. He was unable to find any extenuating circumstances in these pleas. This was the most atrocious crime ever committed in the state. It was committed for avarice and lust. The murder was done to get $35,000 in insurance.

"In the very presence of this little girl (Mrs. Snyder's 9 year old daughter) they planned the date and hour of the murder," he said. "Gray gave her the window weight with which to beat Snyder to death across the restaurant table while the little girl was there. It was all carefully deliberated."

Crowd Clamors to Hear Pleas.

Such a large crowd clamored for admittance that the doors of the executive chamber were closed long before the hearing started.

Mrs. Josephine Brown, mother of Mrs. Snyder, occupied a prominent place right in front of the large, flat topped desk at which the governor sat. To the side sat Gray's mother and Mrs. Logan, a sister of the condemned man.

Among the spectators were Mrs. Smith, wife of the governor; Mrs. John F. Gilchrist, wife of the chairman of the New York transit commission; Mrs. T. J. Mara of New York; Mrs. Frank Farrell of New York; Mrs. Floyd Graves of Albany; Mrs. Arthur J. Leon of Saratoga; and Miss Rose Pedrick of New York.

They were all in Mrs. Smith's party.

CANADA CABINET BOARD PUTS O. K. ON SEAWAY PLAN

Ponders on Bargain to Be Made with U. S.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 5.—Canada will cooperate with the United States in international development of the St. Lawrence seaway project if the conclusions understood to have been reached at today's private sessions of the Canadian national advisory committee are acted upon favorably by the dominion government. Development of the seaway project will open the port of Chicago to ocean commerce.

As the advisory committee was appointed by the cabinet to pass upon the feasibility of the project submitted by Canadian and American engineers, there is no ground for supposing the government will turn down whatever finding the committee makes, except possibly on the ground of national finances.

Favor Plan Unanimously.

The advisory committee is said to have favored the project unanimously in principle. It is understood, however, that its members backed up somewhat on the major proposal involving expenditures of more than $500,000,000 and favored generally the more modest plan involving $400,000,000 expenditures.

The committee discussed at length the nature of the bargain that the Dominion should enter into with the United States, and the opinion unanimously was expressed that Canada should negotiate for financial allowance for its expenditure in deepening to 30 feet the Welland canal, which will form an integral part of the waterway.

While the St. Lawrence canal sys-

Col. Charles Lindbergh completed another lap in his good will flight through Central America yesterday when he flew from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, to Managua, Nicaragua. Instead of flying in a straight line, the aviator flew along the western edge of Nicaragua by way of Chinandega and Leon in order to dodge the war area in the northern part of the country, where several marines were killed recently in fighting with rebels. tem in its present state accommodates about 7,000,000 tons of shipping annually, the conclusion was expressed that by deepening the river to twenty-five feet 24,000,000 tons could be accommodated each year.

Spurn Tories' Demand.

The resolution carried by the Winnipeg Conservative convention demanding an all-Canadian seaway, which will loom large in subsequent debate in the house of commons, was not even discussed by the advisory committee today. This indicates that the government does not consider such a project.

Much of the committee's discussions centered on the potential 5,000,000 electrical horse power involved, in which eastern Canada is intensely interested.

came in on a slightly different course. The escort flew in low formation acrobatically over the auto procession which took the flyer to the Managua palace.

Col. Lindbergh said: "My trip from Tegucigalpa to Managua was made without incident, although I was delayed by the head winds. I flew from Tegucigalpa to Leon over Chinandega; therefore I did not pass over the bandit strongholds. From Leon I followed the railway to Managua. I expect to remain here until Saturday morning, when I will go to Costa Rica for two days, and then will fly to Panama. I have not decided yet what route I will fly from Panama to Cuba, but how long I will remain there."

In reply to a query from a Nicaraguan reporter as to the rumor of his marriage in the near future, he said: "That is a subject not connected with this flight."

HUGHES LOOKS ON HIS ZONE SYSTEM AND CALLS IT O.K.

New Deputy Commissioners Take Commands.

(Picture on back page.) Chicago's revamped police department was running smoothly again last night following a day of hubbub and confusion while the new commissioner system of control was established by Commissioner—erstwhile Chief—Michael Hughes.

"I am more than pleased with the organization," the commissioner announced. "We have strengthened the department 100 per cent and it is certain to mean better police work."

Under the new arrangement, seven deputy commissioners are staff of seven, one assigned to headquarters, and one to each of the six divisions, and one in command of five police divisions of the city. Commissioner Hughes called the deputies into a three hour conference during the afternoon instructing them on their new duties.

New Powers Granted.

Each deputy commissioner in his part of the city will be supreme, having powers and duties in his own police area corresponding to those of Commissioner Hughes in the whole city.

For example, Deputy Commissioner William E. Russell will command the second division, composed of 15 south side stations. He will establish his headquarters in an office at the Wabash avenue station, with secretary and stenographers. His office will handle all citizens' complaints, keep crime statistics, send out inspection squads and special details, and recommend transfers within the department.

"I expect the new system to clear the politicians out of my office," Commissioner Hughes said. "If anybody wants any favors they will have to go to the division commanders. In the future, I expect to give more of my time to general policies and less to details."

Emphasizes His Policies.

At the conference yesterday the commissioner dismissed the deputy commissioners with these words:

"I am giving you full authority and with it the responsibility. Keep all the news in your district eternally after the smoke and criminals. I want no newspapers or reformers. Keep the police on the streets, working all the time. Work yourselves. These deputies' jobs aren't any soft berth. If you don't work you can expect to be relieved at any time without notice."

Two more officers were added last night to the list of those promoted in the wake of the reorganization. Lieut. Thomas Duffy was promoted to a captaincy and Lieut. Thomas Ragan was made a lieutenant of detectives. Commissioner Hughes announced also that he will probably issue a formal order today making

LOSES $500

PEGGY PAUL.

Peggy Paul, glancing last July from a kindly mirror into the classified columns of a Chicago newspaper, was attracted by the following:

"Wanted—Men and women for motion picture opportunity."

Peggy had been working in restaurants, but was not just then. She answered the ad. Next day the director of the Filmcraft Motion Picture corporation, one Harry Keaton, called her by phone and made an appointment. Peggy was impressed by his offices in the State-Lake building. He promised her, she said, a great future in Hollywood, starting with the lead in a Chicago film, for which he later told his cast—Peggy, Joseph Gerhart, Henry Damms, and a few others—that he needed more money.

Peggy declared her $500 savings made part of $3,400 the loyal cast provided. There was a studio at 2228 Lincoln avenue, but one October evening she found only darkness there. So she, Gerhart, and Damms got a warrant for Keaton.

Capt. Michael Grady chief of detectives to replace William O'Connor, who is now a deputy commissioner.

Besides Russell and O'Connor, the new officers are John H. Alcock, assigned to headquarters as first deputy commissioner; Thomas Wolfe, in command of the first division; Martin E. Mullin, commanding the third division; Ira J. McDowell, fourth division; and James L. Mooney, fifth division.

Commissioner Hughes also announced yesterday the transfers of several captains as a result of the reorganization. Capt. Matthew Homer of Des Plaines street was sent to Stanton avenue to replace Deputy Commissioner Russell, while Capt. John Egan of Gresham replaced Capt. Homer at Des Plaines street. Capt. Max L. Danner of Cragin takes Deputy Commissioner Wolfe's place at central station; while Capt. Thomas Kilroy, a new captain, goes to Gresham. Lieut. MUSIC STORE IS BOMBED; HUNT RACKET GANG Owners Blame Refusal to Join Organization.

(Picture on back page.) The front of the radio and music store of Louis Eller, at 2702 West Division street, was blown away last night by the explosion of a dynamite bomb, one of the new and more powerful kind adopted recently by bombers who felt that the old black powder charges were not destructive enough.

Eller and his son, Louis, said that they believed racketeers seeking to start a radio trade association may have been responsible. They recalled that they were approached several months ago by men representing themselves as organizers.

Turned Down Organizers.

"We told them we were not interested," asserted the elder. "That's the last we ever heard of the matter and we got no threats. But we have no personal enemies and have not been in any trouble with any one."

Eller added that the radio dealers themselves had formed an organization known as the Midwest Radio Trades association and that it had as its avowed purpose a campaign to keep racketeers out of this business. His leanings toward this anti-racketeer body were known, although he was not an active member, he said.

The explosion tore away the plate glass windows of the store and damaged several radio sets in the front part. The total loss was estimated at more than $1,000.

Follows Closing of Store.

The Ellers told the police they had locked up the place at five minutes after 10. It was only five minutes later when the explosion occurred.

Three other bombings since Jan. 1 are under investigation by the police. Two, those of the Newport hotel at 2351 West Madison street, and the Forest club in Forest Park, were attributed to war over the control of commercialized vice. At each of these places the damage exceeded $10,000.

The third bombing scene was the home of Isaac Goodman, at 3650 Lexington street. Early this morning Deputy Chief of Detectives Michael Grady arrested Joseph "Peggy" Genaro, 310 West 27th street, for questioning in connection with the vice resort bombings.

Bricks were hurled early today through the windows of the restaurant of Sam Espchuk, 1216 Miller street, and the meat market of Jack Lopiska, 1453 Hastings street. The damage was ascribed by the police to racketeers.

WILL ASK MAYOR TO HELP CITY'S NEGRO RESIDENTS

Doctors Seek 60,000 Petition Signers.

Colored citizens of Chicago are being asked to sign a petition asking Mayor Thompson for better treatment for their race in health and educational matters.

The petition, originated by the Cook County Physicians' association, a Negro organization, has been in circulation for about three weeks, and will be kept moving until 60,000 signatures are obtained, it is stated.

"It won't take long to get 60,000 signers," said Dr. Roscoe C. Giles, president of the association, "as it has been endorsed by all the fraternal orders and other organizations with memberships sufficient to insure our total."

Makes Many Requests.

The specific requests of the petition are the following:

Appointment of a colored physician as assistant health commissioner.

Appointment of a Negro as a member of the board of education.

Appointment of members of the Cook County Physicians' association to the staff of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and its dispensaries.

Admission to the city sanitarium of Negroes on the basis of the number of tuberculosis cases among their race.

Establishment of a south side hospital maintained either by the city or county which shall be open to all physicians, nurses, and patients without regard to creed, color, or race.

Charge School Segregation.

The petition sets up that its authors have been informed that racial segregation in the schools has been practiced by some district superintendents and principals "aided and abetted by certain members of the board of education."

The petitioners also complain that the high death rate from preventable diseases among their race is "due to bad housing, inadequate hospital facilities on the south side, and lack of initiative in the enforcement of sanitary laws as regards the active demolition of condemned property."

MONEY SCARE SENDS STOCKS TUMBLING IN 3,404,100 SHARE DAY

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—A brief rush of selling, which for its duration, has had few parallels in Wall street, caused a sharp decline on the New York stock exchange today, resulting in the second largest market in history. There was something of a reaction upward at the close. Transactions ran to 3,404,100 shares. The compares with the record for all time of 3,785,700 shares, established on March 3, 1926.

Today's selling movement seemed to be the result of a money scare growing out of the disclosure by the stock exchange after the close of the market on the day before that brokers' loans had increased $341,600,000 in December and had reached the highest level on record, $4,432,907,321.

The recovery in the market started more abruptly than did the break. Shortly after 12 o'clock the official call money rate was lowered from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent. This had an immediate heartening effect as it was seized upon as evidence that the credit situation is entirely comfortable.

URGES SENATE QUIZ ON TROOPS IN NICARAGUA

Wheeler Leads Fight on Coolidge Policy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Controversy over the Nicaraguan situation continued to enliven debates in both houses of congress today.

Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] introduced in the senate a resolution for an investigation by the senate committee on foreign relations. This resolution, which will have the support of the anti-administration forces, proposes an inquiry into the nature of concessions in Nicaragua held by Americans and the facts relative to sending marines there.

Senator Heflin [Dem., Ala.], who yesterday offered a resolution for the withdrawal of marines, assailed the administration policy in a speech today. He was answered by Senators Bingham [Rep., Conn.] and Fess [Rep., O.] on behalf of the administration.

In the house of representatives Huddleston [Dem., Ala.] and Begg [Rep., O.] resumed their argument of yesterday, the former again attacking the present move of the Coolidge administration in sending additional marines and the latter defending the action.

Senator Bingham in replying to Senator Heflin declared that his statements were based upon false assumptions.

Welcome Marines.

"As a matter of fact, practically all of Nicaragua is in a state of peace except a small part in the northern part near Honduras," said Senator Bingham. "A great majority of the Liberal party in Nicaragua as well as the Conservative party welcome the presence of the marines and look forward with satisfaction to the election at which there will be an opportunity to have their votes counted."

"Sandino is a bandit and outlaw from his own party and because it is more profitable for him to do so he has withdrawn into the northern fastnesses to pursue banditry."

Senator Bingham said that the Monroe Doctrine and our interest in the region adjacent to the Panama canal make it essential that the United States keep a hand in Nicaraguan affairs. Three or four European countries, Senator Bingham said, have served notice that if the United States does not maintain peace in Nicaragua they will be forced to go there.

Fess Produces Records.

Senator Fess read from a speech by Senator Heflin in 1914 defending the action of President Wilson in landing marines at Vera Cruz, Mexico, when Republicans were disposed to criticize it.

The Wheeler resolution directs the

ASK HERO MEDALS FOR 3 DIVERS WHO RISKED LIVES IN S-4 DISASTER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The extraordinary bravery of three navy divers who took part in the struggle to rescue the imprisoned members of the crew of the submarine S-4 from the icy waters of Provincetown has led their commanding officer to recommend that they be awarded decorations for heroism.

Rear Admiral Frank H. Brunby, in charge of the salvage and rescue operations, has asked Secretary Wilbur that a congressional medal of honor be given Thomas Eadie, chief gunner's mate, and that navy crosses be conferred upon William J. Carr and Fred G. Michaels.

Senate foreign relations committee or a sub-committee thereof to investigate the terms and conditions under which concessions have been procured in Nicaragua by United States citizens and by corporations and other associations in which United States citizens are financially interested, and the nature and extent of such concessions.

The committee is further authorized to investigate "who ordered the marines to be sent to Nicaragua, why they were sent there, why they have been kept there, why they have not acted as neutrals, whether or not it is the purpose of the executive branches of our government to continue to usurp the power of congress given it by the constitution of the United States, namely, the power to declare war, and any other matter or thing which, to the committee or a sub-committee thereof, may seem meet and proper in the premises."

SANITARY BOARD MAY OFFER POST TO SEYFERLICH

Provision is to be made in the budget of the sanitary district for the position of fire prevention inspector at a reported salary of $7,500, it was learned last night. If this item is approved this afternoon by the budget makers, it is generally understood that Arthur F. Seyferlich, who was ousted as Chicago's fire chief on Nov. 2, will be offered the job.

The duties of the inspector will include reduction of fire hazards in plants operated by the sanitary board so that the fire insurance rates may be lowered. Creation of this office and filling it with an ousted city official follows a precedent established when

Dr. Herman N. Sundeen was installed in the new position of health commissioner for the drainage board. Seyferlich had served as fire chief for three years at the time of his dismissal. He had served on the fire department force for 37 years.

MARINES REACH WAR SCENE; FIND REBELS ROUTED

Relieve Forces Holding Nicaragua Town.

BY LOUIS ROSENTHAL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 5.—The United States marine rescue detachment is reported to have arrived today at Quilali, where serious fighting occurred recently between marines and Nicaraguan rebels under Gen. Augusto Sandino. It is said the marine reinforcements encountered no rebels and that their presence has greatly relieved the serious situation at Quilali, where marine forces were on the alert against new attacks by the rebels.

Authentic reports received at Managua say the bandits are receiving reinforcements from the territory east of Chipote, near which place Gen. Sandino is believed to be now. Marine planes are bombing the bandits daily with good effect.

Machine Guns Rout Bandits.
Dispatches received from the command of Capt. Richard Livingston at Quilali report that Friday's battle was the result of an attack from a thick banana patch and that although it was a surprise, the marines and National Guardmen, who are under the command of Americans, soon had the situation in hand. The bandits were driven to cover by a machine gun company of 120 men at Quilali, and the drive against Gen. Sandino continued.

Capt. Livingston reports that many of the marine casualties in Friday's battle were caused by dynamite bombs thrown from close range. It is reported that a close patrol both of the east and west coasts of Nicaragua by a special service squadron is being established, and Rear Admiral Sellers is proceeding from the Panama base to Orizaba to place landing parties ashore.

Many Marines Fell.
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5.—(AP)—In support of his previous statement as to the large number of United States marines killed in the fighting in Nicaragua in the last six months, Pedro Zapata, Nicaraguan Liberal, formerly the representative in Mexico City of Dr. Juan Sacasa, Nicaraguan Liberal leader, has made public the account by Gen. Sandino of a battle at Telapana of Sept. 18-19. This account, he says, was printed by the newspaper El Centro Americano, of Leon, Nicaragua.

Sandino does not mention the number of Liberal casualties, but says, "The enemy dead numbered eighty, between Yankees and constabularies."

Deny Story of Marines Slain.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—The navy department today denied the statement of Pedro Zapata, Nicaraguan rebel agent in Mexico City, telling of the killing of eighty American marines and Nicaraguan constabulary by Gen. Sandino's rebels. The total of marines killed in Nicaragua since the expeditionary force entered is only sixteen, according to the department.

NAIROBI, Africa, Jan. 5.—(U. P.)—George F. He bagged a world's record buffalo, and some elephants. These will be added to Mr. Getz's famous collection at Holland, Mich.

"I cannot recommend a similar expedition," Mr. Getz said, "because of trouble with insubordinate natives." The expedition included George F. Getz, Jr., Harry Vissering, and Dr. Arthur Metz of Chicago, and Roy Hagar of New York. Clifford Caldwell of the party had to leave and is going home earlier than the rest because of his wife's illness in Chicago.

GEN. FOREMAN TO START ON AFRICAN TRIP NEXT WEEK

A movie camera instead of a high powered rifle will be the principal weapon of Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, retired commander of the 8th division, in his search for big game in Africa. He is to leave Chicago next Tuesday for Mombasa, British East Africa, where he will join a party of hunters and move into the jungles.

Dr. George P. Marquis, who is going on a pleasure trip, will accompany Gen. Foreman as far as Mombasa. Gen. Foreman said yesterday that he had not made any definite plans for his hunting, except that he hoped to get good pictures of African animals in their native haunts. He plans to exhibit the results of his hunt to the public on his return.

After a stopover in Washington, Gen. Foreman will sail from New York on the steamship Laconia on Friday. He intends to remain away from Chicago about three months.

Denham, retired managing director of the Airship Guarantee company, according to the Westminster Gazette. Commander Denham will sail for New York next Wednesday to complete arrangements for the inaugural flight of the giant airship R-100 across the Atlantic, and, it is said, will discuss with American financiers the formation of an Anglo-American company to operate a fleet of passenger airships between London and New York.

INDIANA ASKED TO BAR CALUMET WASTE IN LAKE

Sanitary Board to Open Water Negotiations.

The sanitary district yesterday delegated its health commissioner, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, to open negotiations with Indiana health officials with a view to preventing a recurrence of conditions which recently made Chicago's water almost undrinkable.

Dr. Bundesen was authorized to propose to Dr. William F. King, Indiana state health commissioner, that the 14 industrial plants in the Calumet region which are credited with having been largely responsible for the conditions be compelled to dispose of their phenol wastes through evaporation.

Why Water Was Bad.

It was the presence of these phenol wastes, Dr. Bundesen reported, borne with a southeast wind into Chicago waters, that necessitated the extravagant use of chlorine during the week of Dec. 23 to 30 in order that the accompanying sewage might be purified. Absorption of the chlorine by the phenol created the nauseous condition of the water.

In his water survey report, which has been ordered by Timothy J. Crowe, president of the district, Dr. Bundesen vindicated the city officials for having treated the water with an abnormal quantity of chlorine.

"If the water had not been treated in this way," he said, "we would have been in the grip of a virulent typhoid epidemic in the next two weeks. It is reported that the public health emergency was met in Chicago by prompt and efficient chlorination control." Dr. Bundesen's suggestion that the immediate remedy lies in the installation by the industrial plants of machinery for evaporating the phenol wastes is based, he said, on the practice followed in the Pittsburgh region, and in the upper Ohio river basin.

Not Complete Relief.

While this remedy would eliminate the drift of industrial wastes from the northern Indiana region into Chicago's water, still with a southeast wind of sufficient velocity and duration sewage from a population of about 150,000 in the Calumet cities of the district would contaminate the water here, Dr. Bundesen reported.

To remove completely the danger of contamination of Chicago water by Indiana sewage, Dr. Bundesen was authorized to launch a program of wider scope. He is to undertake to create sentiment that will result in the diversion by the northern Indiana region of all sewage from Lake Michigan into the Chicago and Illinois drainage system.

Committee to Aid City.

In addition to commissioning Dr. Bundesen for this task, the trustees appointed a committee to cooperate with the city in its investigation of the recent conditions. This committee consists of Chief Engineer Edward J. Kelly, Macley Hoynes, attorney for the board; Mr. Crowe, and Dr. Bundesen.

As a start in its investigation the committee announced last night the revelation that Whiting, Ind., was forced to use 50 pounds of chlorine per 1,000,000 gallons of water to counteract its absorption by the phenol in the water. This was necessary despite the fact that Whiting filters its water. In Chicago the maximum amount of chlorine used during the week was 13 pounds per 1,000,000 gallons.

Dr. Bundesen's report, besides making suggestions for removing pollution, reviewed the water conditions from Dec. 23 to 30.

Traces Cause of Pollution.

"One of the worst periods in the history of taste producing industrial waste pollution of the southern end of Lake Michigan occurred during the week of Dec. 23-30, 1927," the report read.

"The water supplies of Gary, East Chicago, Whiting, Hammond, and Chicago were rendered undrinkable and affected more than 3,000,000 people in those communities and thousands of industries using city water in edible products.

"The taste producing elements were phenol and cresol, compounds wasted from by-product coke plants and which combined chemically with the chlorine used for disinfecting the water supplies.

"The amount of phenol pollution was very great, being about 60 parts per billion, or from four to ten times the quantity capable of producing the disagreeable carboxylic acid or iodoform taste.

"Investigation indicates that these industrial wastes are probably discharged into Lake Michigan from the Indiana harbor ship canal apparently in intermittent batches between Dec. 23 and 28."

JULIAN OIL FRAUD TRIAL ON; 35,000 ALLEGED VICTIMS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Ten defendants, all well known local bankers and business men, went to trial before Judge William Dornan this morning on charges in connection with Julian Oil corporation alleged stock frauds. The trial followed nine months of preliminary legal skirmishing in which there was a wholesale abandonment of charges against other defendants and a wholesale indictment by the county grand jury.

Seven women and five men were picked on the tentative jury this afternoon, with prospects of the trial extending two months.

District Attorney Asa Keyes announced that exactly 4,973,606 shares composed the Julian stock overissue; the permit to sell stock allowed only 318,000 shares, and 5,483,606 were actually sold. Thirty-five thousand stock purchasers are interested in the case, many of them persons of small means.

SHIP AFTER RUM RUNNER SANK S-4, CAPTAIN ADMITS

long, sank in 102 feet of water and he insisted that if the American navy possessed "adequate safety devices" such as the German navy has used since 1911, the submarine might have been lifted on one end to permit its crew to escape through the torpedo tubes.

Eyelets or Shackles.

Mr. Griffin continued that if it is practical to use "eyelets or shackles" on the pontoons used to raise sunken submarines, it should be a simple matter to develop similar eyelets or shackles attached to the hull of the submarine itself. Such shackles would have allowed a salvage vessel to attach almost immediately to the submarine, he declared.

"What," he demanded, "has ever been done to recommend the building of salvage vessels? I brought them two years ago when the S-51 sank, to request congress to authorize construction of salvage vessels, which are simply big hulks with tremendous displacement sufficient to lift any submarine that has ever been built or will be built for many years to come.

Wedded to Routine.

"Is that a dream? Is that my imagination? Germany has the Vulcan. France has another salvage ship of that kind. Italy has the best of all and the largest salvage machine. What a shame and reflection it is upon the navy department that we should at this hour and in this civilized day, be compelled to confess our inadequacy and our inefficiency where human life is at stake."

"Take the period between 1915 when the F-4 sank and 1925 when the S-51 sank," said Mr. Griffin. "Not a blessed thing has been done to render this type of vessel safe during all of that time. Why? Because these men are wedded to routine and to conservatism. They never accept a suggestion, particularly from the outside with an open mind, or give welcome to any suggestion which does not originate with themselves. Their only answer is 'it can't be done.' What we want in the American navy is men who will say 'it can be done.'"

Halt Salvaging Work.

Provincetown, Mass., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Unfavorable weather caused the suspension of all salvaging work on the submarine S-4 today and a freshening northwest wind late this evening threatened to make tomorrow's sea too choppy for diving operations.

The salvaging fleet, which moved from the scene of the disaster into the harbor this morning, remained at anchor all day.

The respite gave the divers an opportunity to make needed adjustments to their gear and permitted the officers directing the operations to confer with experts, one of whom was Lieut. Commander Norborne L. Rawlings, a naval constructor from the Portsmouth navy yard.

BIG U. S. MARINE, FEWER CRUISERS, MAGRUDER PLAN

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—Construction of fewer cruisers and more large merchant ships capable of mounting eight inch guns in case of a national emergency was advocated by Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder in an attack upon the administration's new naval construction program today.

Appearing again as a witness before the house naval affairs committee, the admiral described the present American merchant marine as inadequate as an auxiliary for the navy. He asserted that this country can never be adequately prepared upon the sea until the merchant marine is properly developed.

Merchant Marine Essential.

"The merchant marine," said Admiral Magruder, "is an absolute essential to sea power and the building of a fleet of merchant ships is just as important as the building of light cruisers. If I had my way, I would cut down the number of cruisers to be constructed under the new program presented to congress by Secretary Wilbur, commission a number of the new destroyers we now have in dry dock and build at least ten large merchant ships for possible use with the fleet."

The admiral was not asked how many ships he would cut from the proposed program, which calls for the building of twenty-five 10,000 ton cruisers. However, he later said that fifteen cruisers would be sufficient if the merchant marine was expanded as it should be. He also urged the repeal of laws which restrict the development of an American merchant marine.

Admiral Magruder was questioned at length by Representative McClintock (Dem., Okla.). The Oklahoma representative charged Secretary of the Navy Wilbur had issued an order forbidding naval officers to attend the hearings.

Fears Navy Muzzle.

"Is it not true," he asked, "that Secretary Wilbur has ordered naval officers not to attend these hearings?" "That is what naval officers have told me," answered the admiral, and he read a short order which purported to have been issued by Secretary Wilbur.

"My point is," said Mr. McClintock, "that if Secretary Wilbur can prevent officers from attending these hearings he can muzzle them when they appear at other hearings. I recommend that the secretary be questioned about this."

An Important Announcement

by GENERAL MOTORS

concerning the

New CHEVROLET

By following a policy of progress in the development of low-priced transportation, General Motors has given the public an ever-increasing measure of—

Modern features—

General Motors, through its Chevrolet division, was a pioneer in giving the public those modern features of design which today are the basis of luxurious low-priced transportation. Prominent among these are: Selective 3-speed transmission; semi-elliptic springs parallel to the frame; electric starting, lighting and ignition; Duco finishes in color; water pump cooling system; pressure pump lubrication, and the vacuum fuel system.

Modern performance—

General Motors has always believed that the public is entitled to the advantages inherent in advanced engineering practice. This policy, carried out by the Chevrolet division, has enabled owners of even low-priced cars to enjoy, year after year, the latest developments affecting power, acceleration, smoothness, handling ease, stamina and economy.

Riding comfort—

Realizing that the public's enjoyment of individual transportation is largely dependent on comfort, General Motors has devoted years of research to the basic comfort factors. Numerous discoveries have been made in chassis springs, spring suspensions, spring steels, seat cushioning, weight distribution, and body balance. And through Chevrolet these have been given without delay to the purchasers of low-priced automobiles.

Distinctive style—

Early in the development of motor cars, appearance and the pride of possession became important factors in owner satisfaction. Through its long connection with the Fisher Body Corporation, General Motors has consistently introduced finer and more beautiful automobiles. And all the basic advancements in styling have been available to Chevrolet as rapidly as they were created.

As a result of its policy of progress, General Motors through its automobile divisions, has always given the public without delay the benefits of advanced engineering development.

In the short time that has passed since its presentation, the new Chevrolet has become a subject of comment and discussion in homes all over the land.

One of the expressions most frequently heard is: "How can Chevrolet build so fine an automobile and sell it at such low prices?"

To this perfectly natural question there is a perfectly simple answer. The new Chevrolet was produced to sell at its present prices only because the Chevrolet Motor Company used with telling effect the many distinct advantages it enjoys as a division of General Motors.

The style, comfort, performance and quality of the new Chevrolet represent more than the efforts of a single organization engaged in building a single type of car. It embodies in full measure the experience gained by all General Motors divisions in the development of all General Motors cars.

Its prices are based on the many economies of General Motors' tremendous purchasing power and diversified automotive manufacture.

And its modern design reflects the General Motors policy of constant progress—by which the benefits of engineering advancement are given to the public at the earliest possible opportunity.

General Motors acquires its basic materials in tremendous volume—steel by the hundreds of thousands of tons—wire by the tens of thousands of miles—upholsteries by the acre—nuts, bolts and washers by the millions. This makes it possible to command the most favorable prices from sources of supply whose specialized experience enables them to produce the finest materials for a given purpose. Millions of dollars are saved each year; and millions are passed on to the public in the form of finer, more modern, more desirable automobiles at lower prices.

Through its Fisher Body division, General Motors is the world's largest builder of automobile bodies, with 44 body plants in various parts of the country. It operates its own lumber mills and owns thousands of acres of hardwood forests. It makes its own glass in the world's largest plate glass factory. It manufactures all of its own body hardware. Its craftsmanship is internationally renowned, and its style influence is felt throughout the industry.

As a result, General Motors cars in every price class have Fisher bodies of acknowledged distinction and sound construction. And nowhere is this more vividly revealed than in the new Chevrolet.

General Motors manufactures, both for itself and the industry at large, an almost limitless number of specialized automotive products. Starting, lighting and ignition equipment—ball bearings—steering wheels—roller bearings—warning horns—wheels—rims—spark plugs—air cleaners—oil filters—radiators—all call for specialized engineering and production skill.

General Motors makes them all—and purchasers of motor cars the world over benefit accordingly.

The engineering staffs responsible for all General Motors cars are continually striving for the new and better thing. At their disposal are the General Motors Research Laboratories and the General Motors Proving Ground. Every engineering advancement and scientific discovery resulting from this combined effort is immediately available for use on all General Motors automobiles from Cadillac to Chevrolet.

This is an advantage of untold value. Years ago it enabled Chevrolet to pioneer into the low-priced field those quality features on which the present conception of a low-priced quality car is based. Today, it makes possible numerous new improvements in the Bigger and Better Chevrolet.

In developing the Chevrolet cars of the past, General Motors has made a vital contribution to the happiness and welfare of the nation.

It created an entirely new idea of what the buyer of a low-priced automobile could expect. It made luxurious transportation the pleasure of the many, rather than the privilege of the few. It has made progress an automotive watchword.

Now, in the new Chevrolet, that policy of progress finds still further expression. More modern features have been provided. More distinguished style has been created. Finer performance has been attained. Greater comfort has been provided. And wider public service has been rendered.

MR. KELLOGG'S PEACE PROPOSAL

Secretary Kellogg has sent a note to France asking that the Briand proposal for a treaty recognizing war as a means of settlement of disputes be extended to bring all the large countries into the negotiations. The American state department also offers to extend the separate arbitration agreement which expires Feb. 28.

Apparently the United States government has been in some doubt as to what to do with the Briand request for a treaty outlawing war for ever in any relations with France. President Coolidge has said he doubted that this country could effectually go far in predicting or determining what other administrations or a congress at any time might do.

There is a war outlawry party in congress determined to bring up the question of such a banishment from human affairs now and forever, and it is probably the case that the administration wishes to avoid a position in which it would seem indifferent or inconsiderate of improvements in international relations. The resolutions in the senate and the French proposal may seem to many people to offer hope of ridding the world of one of its calamities and abruptness in dismissing the proposal might seem cynical and ruthless. No American government wants to be maneuvered into that position.

In avoiding it Mr. Kellogg apparently has gone a long way and if it is to be expected that his suggestion will be seriously followed up he will have some odd cooperation before he is done. Tack on to his idea the condition that the nations shall give up all their armament and he and the Russians will be sitting on the same bench at Geneva. Mr. Kellogg and a Russian commissar talking to the same purpose will combine in one of the most unexpected phenomena of 1928.

He need not be astonished if the European reply raises the question why the United States always counters with one of its own schemes when something for the prevention of war is considered. This country refused to join the league of nations. It has not succeeded in getting into the world court. It has rejected most of the proposals of its own allies and of Europeans who are seeking a new peace of things. Here is another American proposal and there is nothing narrow in its boundaries.

It proposes conversations with every nation which can be induced to sit in and talk with the hope of getting treaties and agreements recognizing war as a thinkable means of settling international disputes. No doubt Mr. Kellogg has his eyes fixed on natural limitations, but there isn't much in his text to suggest to Europe that there is anything to prevent this American congress and this American administration from determining just what the American people a generation hence might do in certain circumstances.

It would be just as easy to bind another generation of Americans as another generation of Germans, British, French, or Italians. It is wishing rather than determining. Because it is wishing for a good thing it is accepted as avoiding a bad thing. We still adhere to the idea that peace is in the wish, will, and disposition of people and not in the paper writings they sign or the machinery they set up. These agreements indicate the will and wish and do not create it. They may furnish means of approach to a peaceable settlement when the will to make settlement exists. Such means nearly always can be extorted and many of them now exist by definite agreement.

It is a commentary on the present discussion that France discovers it already has a peace treaty with the United States which will not lapse when the other does. It is one of the thirty odd which represented a high spot in the life of W. J. Bryan as secretary of state just before he resigned in alarm seeing the almost certain approach of war to destroy the world wide scope of his peace by agreement not to fight for a year after the cause of a probable war had been disclosed.

ANTOINETTE OULMETTE, ONCE THE ONLY CHICAGOAN.

The new Shawnee Country club house will start building next spring, we learn from the real estate office. The club was formed last fall by merging the old Oulmette club of Wilmette with the Century club of Evanston.

With the passing of the name of the Oulmette club we lose another reminder of our early history. There is still the village name, of course, and other enterprises still retain the original spelling. But we cannot have too many, for they are so easily lost and lost.

The name of Oulmette is connected with Chicago's very early history. Antoinette Oulmette was a Frenchman—not an Indian, as he is sometimes spoken of—and was born somewhere near Montreal about 1760. He was an employee of the American Fur company and came to Chicago about 1790. There he lived near the river in a cabin built a short distance to the west of what was later the Kinzie house.

In 1797 he married a Potawatomi woman. The wedding is recorded as having been celebrated in the neighborhood of Gross Point and Antoine's wife became known as Archange Oulmette. Oulmette was living in his cabin across the river from Fort Dearborn at the time of the massacre. As a squaw man and friend of the Indians he was not harmed. His cabin, in fact, proved a haven for survivors of the massacre, who were threatened a second time when Indians summoned too late to share in the slaughter and the plunder prepared to stage another massacre of those who were left. Mrs. Helm, wife of Lieut. Helm of the fort's garrison, was one of those saved by hiding in Oulmette's home.

When the Oulmettes evacuated the fort and the settlement Oulmette and his family remained and he was for a time the only white inhabitant living on the future site of the city. It was about 1823 that he moved to the north shore to occupy two sections of land, extending from a little south of the present Wilmette-Kenilworth boundary to about Central street, Evanston, and running from the lake to west of the present Chicago and Northwestern tracks. The land had been granted to Oulmette's Indian wife by the treaty of Prairie du Chien, July 23, 1823. There on the bluffs near the lake and about at the foot of the present Lake street in Wilmette he built a new cabin to house himself and Archange and their eight children. He was a respected citizen, a taxpayer—on one occasion to the extent of $4—a member of the militia company, and in 1833 we find him petitioning with others for a church for those of the Roman Catholic faith in the growing settlement.

It is this French voyager, trader, and citizen who is remembered by the name of Oulmette and his corruption into Wilmette. It is too bad to see the reminders go.

THE CASE OF MISS ROYDEN.

Miss Maude Royden, the English woman preacher coming to America to speak before some religious organizations of women, found when she landed in New York that Boston and Chicago engagements had been canceled by the women to whom she had expected to talk. The Boston women had heard that Miss Royden indulged the companionate marriage. The Chicago women had heard that she smoked cigars. The English woman said that Boston women were wrong in their belief but the Chicago women were correct. She opposed any form of permanent marriage, but she smoked occasionally and did not believe that smoking and moderate drinking had anything to do with religion.

A Chicago woman novelist living in London was incensed when this new instance of American morality was reported abroad and said that if it were not for the even temper of the English people such action would take on the character of an international insult. It seemed to her to be an insult aggravated by the fact that some of it came from glib and glib Chicago.

It is the spirit of considerable moral controversy to miss an essential distinction now and then. Such personal habits as smoking and drinking moderately are not matters of religion to this English woman and her moral stature and usefulness are not diminished by that idea, but it happens with the Chicago women that their church discipline holds entirely the contrary. To them as a matter of conscientious conviction it is intolerable that a woman should smoke and intolerable that any one should drink intoxicating liquor.

Evidently a mistake had been made when they engaged a speaker on moral subjects with whose moral ideas they were not in accord. Objections to one view or another have nothing to do with it. It is not an opinion of the American people that a woman preacher who smokes occasionally should not have an audience. It is the opinion of a particular organization of women to whom the practice is highly objectionable and opposed by the discipline of their church. They believe that their ideas of right living should not only be preached but practiced.

A liberal who would deny them the right within their own organization to insist uncompromisingly upon their ideas would put himself as far out of court as they do when they insist that their ideas shall be enforced outside their organization by the state.

The mistake may seem to take the form of an affront when the Chicago women try to correct it. It may be intended to take such form, which would be the real discourtesy. It might have been more gracious to have ignored differences of habit, but it is the privilege of a religious conviction to avoid seeming to give sanction to practices of people of that conviction disapprove even by so small a concession as giving ear and attention to a preacher whose words might not offend but whose known views and habits do.

HIGHER TOLLS WOULDN'T HELP.

(The Kansas City, Mo., Star.)

Cheap water transportation through the Panama canal between the two coasts is one of the conditions that have hurt Kansas City and other inland cities. The canal has erected the western rate barrier that has imprisoned the inland country on one side. Factories can ship more cheaply from New York to San Francisco than from Kansas City (and other inland cities) to San Francisco.

Loggers have come to the Star whether conditions might not be equalized somewhat by an increase in Panama canal tolls. People have wondered whether increasing the cost of shipping by water might not help rail shipments to compete.

Unfortunately there is no prospect of relief here. The Panama tolls are such a small part of the freight rate that a violent advance on them would make little difference.

The cost of the tolls is from 6 to 9 cents a hundred pounds of freight. But it costs $1.13 a hundred pounds to ship soap from Kansas City to San Francisco by rail and only 50 cents to ship it by boat from New York. It costs 90 cents to ship certain steel products from Kansas City to San Francisco and only 25 cents to ship them from New York.

EAT RIGHT; LIVE LONG.

HERE ARE RULES.

D. A. ROBERT E. HUMPHRIES is responsible for the following rules: "If you would be healthy and enjoy long life certain rules must be obeyed:

1. Never eat when you are tired.
2. Never eat when you are upset by worry or excitement.
3. Never eat when you are going to do things that are upsetting.
4. Eat sparingly any thing you like when you are hungry.
5. Do not think you must have three meals a day.
6. Do not force a child when he does not want food.
7. Keep a child out of excitement as much as possible at meal time.
8. Do not eat him at meal time.
9. See to it that he gets plenty of rest.
10. The first five of these rules relate to both adults and children but rather more to the former. The last relate to the child, though the principles apply to adults as well.

Dr. Humphries thinks what we call indigestion is principally a result of faulty habits and the only cure lies in the line of changing one's habits. The only way he can see for diets is that they are "a means of cutting down the amount of food each person puts into his stomach. Most people eat much more than is necessary. I think people should be advised to eat cautiously and only when they are hungry."

On the subject of children he says: "A tired father or mother attempts to discipline a child when they themselves really need disciplining. This discipline usually takes place at meal time, as it is the only time when the family is together. The child, though, the principles apply to adults as well."

"When a child will not eat the mother tempts him with special food and this food is best kept for him. He must be forced to eat when he does not want to eat; and he must not be allowed to eat unless he is rested."

"And 'Mother India' quotes Gandhi as saying: 'I overeat. I have indigestion. I go to a doctor. He gives me medicine. I am cured. I overeat again. And I take his pills again. Had I not taken the pills I should have been cured. I would have suffered the punishment deserved by me. I would not have over-eaten again.'"

OUR AUTO HAUNT AIR.

H. A. W. writes: Isn't it possible that the air of our country is being poisoned by motor cars? The millions of automobiles now being driven on this continent are exhaling a gas which is deadly. Can't the air out of doors, especially on damp days, be poisoned to the extent of slowly poisoning our population?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE SINGING SEA

The sea hath habit; the sea hath song. And I have heard it singing. Where wildest birds have never flown, Nor temple bells go ringing.

For the sea is organ and orchestra. And some have heard them playing On moonless nights; down trackless ways Where derelicts go straying.

The sea is sad as woman is sad; The sailors have heard it sobbing. Where ghost ships sever the grayish mist With never an engine throbbing.

And when old ships shall sail no more, Content at anchors riding, I, too, shall find in lost lagoons Some place of sweet abiding.

WITH THIS WAR between the automobile manufacturers getting hotter and hotter and the prices cheaper and cheaper, we're not going to buy a car. No, sir, we're going to wait around until Mr. Ford or one of his rivals offers us a car free with a suit of clothes thrown in and a bonus every time we drive the machine down the Boul. Mich.

Tis a Poor Time to Fall Downstairs

R. H. L.: I escaped unscathed from the New Year's revels, and then, glory be, I fell down the stairs next morning and almost cracked my neck. When I called them at the office and told them the reason I wouldn't be down, they wouldn't believe me, they wouldn't believe me.

THE SHELL OF SHANDON.

The Soft Answer That Turneth Away Wrath

R. H. L.: I stood alone on the corner of 32d and Halsted streets that cold and stormy night three days ago waiting for a southbound car. Three of them came along and all passed without stopping. Finally, the fourth car stopped, and I, being Irish, said to the conductor while paying my fare: "See three cars passed me up while I was standing there. How's that?" He took my fare, handed me a transfer, and said: "That's tough."

MISTER RUMSEY, chairman, if you please, of the New-Board-of-Trade building committee, writes us that they're quite likely to take our gentle hint about putting the last stanza of "La Salle Looks Down His Street" on their swell new building at the head of La Salle street. "Dorogoni," says Mister Rumsey, "you suggest a good idea." Well, sir, that pleases us a lot. We never read that that stanza, and it looked sorta funny, and yet I'd seen something like it before. Too. And then it came to me that there was the turret set out on deck all right enough, but the outline of the superstructure showed that the ship tapered immediately beyond the turret, and there were the bulging heads and the heads of the turret gunners straight up. In which case, when the turret guns cut loose a salvo fore or aft they'd blow most of the visible part of the turret shipboard, including the shipper. Therefore, the turret is set amidships on this painted ship manned and crewed by painted landlubbers. Sometimes in the good old days when I came aboard in the moonlight of the old U. S. S. Dittybox (I was deckswab, first class) and saw the old turret madhouse had four masts instead of two. But next mornin', when the bugler had sounded the call to family prayers at 2 bells—that's 6 o'clock, y'know—with the bell of his saxophone 4 feet from my ear, and I arose with peace in my heart and breathin' a blessing on mankind, especially buglers, and after lasin' up the swingin' in muffled I tottered out on deck I found the turret nailed down in its usual place. And it wasn't until I saw the turret gunners' heads sticking up in midships. Send that frigate back to the dock yards and have her straightened out.

AVAST HEAVING! STAND BY TO REEF TURRETS!

Dick: Can't you do something about that battery in "Hit the Deck"? You know, I looked at that frigate, and it looked sorta funny, and yet I'd seen something like it before. Too. And then it came to me that there was the turret set out on deck all right enough, but the outline of the superstructure showed that the ship tapered immediately beyond the turret, and there were the bulging heads and the heads of the turret gunners straight up. Tut, Tut, Howard, You Mustn't Drink the Fluid.

R. H. L.: Gosh, these new-fangled cigar and cigarette lighters that most of us got for Christmas remind me of the early automobile, or the old radio—they work fine when there's nobody there to see 'em."

A TRUCKFUL OF SNOW being carted out of the business district in Chicago caught fire last night before last and burned down. Whereupon let us all cheer up, it can't get any colder than that.

WHAT'N MILK?

Dick: Here's the lost recipe for Tom and Jerry. Separate the white from the yolk of eggs. Beat separately until stiff. Beat together, adding liquid sugar, until batter attains the consistency of pancake dough. While beating add spices: viz: Cinnamon and cloves, powder or oil. If oil is used be very, very careful; about three drops of each to one-half dozen eggs using egg dropper.

If available, one drop of rum should be added, beating better until all is thoroughly mixed, one tablespoon butter, one hot mug, hot water, and what have you. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg.

P. S.: No milk.

THE BUSY BEE-KEEPER

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 6, 1863.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The war department has advised from Gen. Rosecrans that, following the fighting at Murfreesboro, the rebels are in full retreat, and that he is ready to push the pursuit to the last. The gloom that has crept over the capital for the last five days, and which reached its climax today, when reports were circulated, apparently on good authority, that Rosecrans had surrendered with 20,000 men, is thus changed into general rejoicing.

CAMP NEAR MURFREESBORO.—Gen. Rosecrans reported to Maj. Gen. Halleck at Washington that the Union loss in the battle of Murfreesboro is estimated at 5,500 wounded in hospitals and the dead at 1,000. The rebel loss is believed to be double that number.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The following message was sent by Capt. C. H. Dyer to Philip Wadsworth, Chicago: "Gen. John B. Wymann was killed at Vicksburg. His remains are at Helena."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The victory at Murfreesboro of Gen. Rosecrans and that at Vicksburg of Gen. Sherman are considered as practically ending the war in the southwest. If only decent vigor is displayed in taking advantage of them.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The official report on the foundering of the Monitor south of Cape Hatteras with the loss of two officers and thirty-eight men shows that the sinking was attributable to the springing of a large leak.

PLATEVILLE, Ark.—Rebel newspapers captured at Van Buren, Ark., admit the loss of the rebels at the battle of Prairie Grove in killed and wounded to be 4,000.

CHICAGO.—P. Harkins and Mary A. Conley were married on Jan. 4 by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Duggan, bishop of Chicago.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 6, 1903.

NEW YORK.—When Mrs. Eleanor Duse returned to New York to close her American tour it was with the news that she will be able to establish this summer, through the aid of Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, and other women, the theater which the Italian actress and Gabrielle d'Annunzio planned to build in Italy some years ago. Miss Morgan has undertaken to raise the $150,000 required.

PARIS.—The Petit Bleu, under the title, "An Aerial Marriage," states that Mme. Calvé is going to marry Jules Bois, an author.

CHICAGO.—Julian W. Mack was appointed by Mayor Harrison to succeed the late John W. Ellis on the civil service commission. Mr. Mack is a practicing lawyer and holds the chair of law in the University of Chicago.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 6, 1918.

LONDON.—Prime Minister David Lloyd George in an address before a meeting of delegates of trades unions set forth Great Britain's war aims and the terms of peace it would discuss more specifically than ever before. He declared the empire was fighting to make war impossible in the future by replacing the rule of might by the rule of law. Other points are that all occupied French territory must be restored; Belgium must be restored in full and reparation made for all damage.

LONDON.—A dispatch from the Russian wireless service says that 25,000 German soldiers in the region east of Kovno have revolted and marched out of battle line as the result of the government drafting all soldiers under the age of 25 for dispatch to the western front. The rebellious soldiers entrenched themselves with rifles and machine guns against other German units.

CHICAGO.—Miss Helen Rexford Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilbur Edwards, 5345 Kimbark avenue, was married to Marvin Hughitt Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Frost of Lake Forest and grandson of Marvin Hughitt, former president of the Chicago and North Western.

CHICAGO.—William D. Kerfoot, identified himself the early days with the real estate and business development of Chicago, died at the family residence, 1425 Astor street, at the age of 80.

HERRIN, Ill.—Ephraim Herrin, 73, founder of this city and the most widely known man in this section, died at his home here.

CAR LINES CITED AS EXAMPLE OF UNIT OPERATION

Benefits Obtained With- out Consolidation.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

It has been claimed, and not disputed, that a consolidated ownership would make possible more rapid, more comfortable, more convenient, and more frequent transit service. But no one has explained satisfactorily, either before the council committees or before the legislature's committees, why all these benefits must await a consolidated ownership or a unified management.

It is physically, financially, and engineeringly possible to have some of them before consolidation. That has been demonstrated daily since 1912 by the surface lines in Chicago. They have a unified management without unified ownership. It must pay in some way, or why should they continue it, even when one of the largest surface lines is in the hands of receivers, who would be prohibited by court from curtailing its earnings power?

How Unified Operation Works.
A steel worker gets on a street car at 19th street and Indianapolis avenue to visit a friend near 12th and Halsted streets. The passenger gets on a through route car, owned by the Chicago Railway company, the north and west side surface lines. It travels over the track of the South Chicago and Calumet Street railway and then over the tracks of the Chicago City Railway company until it arrives at Cottage Grove avenue and 22d street. Then he transfers into a car owned by the Chicago City Railway company, but travels over the tracks owned by the Southern Street railway at 22d street. At Halsted he transfers to a car owned by the Chicago Railway company and rides over tracks owned by that same company to his destination.

The north and west side lines are in the control of one financial group and the other three companies are controlled by a different group. Do they always dwell in peace and harmony? They occasionally differ sharply and sometimes fight as vigorously as the most bitter financial foes; yet they know it is to their advantage to continue a unified management.

Insults Opinion Recalled.
The steel worker and tens of thousands of other residents of Chicago do not know there are four street car companies who have received franchises to operate in the city. Since the surface line companies, with their own individual interests, can agree upon a unified operation, there is nothing which prevents an interchange of passengers now by transfers between the surface lines and the elevated roads.

That isn't the view alone of an outsider. No less an authority than Samuel Insull, recognized as a utility operator of high merit throughout the nation, has publicly said that it is not necessary to await consolidation before getting more rapid transit service. Exactly two years ago Mr. Insull appeared before the council transportation committee to answer ten or more written questions. He offered that day, if the city would permit, to increase the capacity of the elevated lines 75 per cent. That consent has never been given. Previously, in September, 1924, he asked for the privilege of vastly increasing the service on the elevated lines. His plea fell on deaf ears both times.

Consolidation Not Essential.
In the general discussion on Jan. 8, 1928, Ald. D. S. McKinlay asked: "Are you in favor of a unification of all the local transportation facilities in the city and would you be willing to cooperate to that end?"

"I don't think it is an essential," replied Mr. Insull. "I am now speaking as the head of the Chicago Rapid Transit company. I don't think unification is at all essential to provide the city of Chicago with first class rapid transit."

"Particularly speaking, I believe that unification and universal transfers have some advantages, but it would also bring great difficulties before a proper scheme could be arrived at. But we have been discussing this question of rapid transit in Chicago until we are all tired of it. You now have the necessary machinery at your disposal to get improvements in rapid transit. The obtaining of those does not at all prevent unification when the time comes. When that will come, I don't know."

All that can be found on page 57 of the proceedings before the committee on Jan. 8, 1928. Near the close of that session, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the committee, asked Mr. Insull what he would do if he were mayor, knowing what he does about transportation and finance. The first thing Mr. Insull said he would do would be to get the power of the city to build a subway.

Would Extend Elevated.
Later he went on: "Then I would compel the elevated roads to build all the extensions that could possibly be remunerative. I would not bother myself about the loop. I would provide transportation first, and the relocations afterwards."

"I would not be much concerned about waiting until unification was obtained. As I said, unification, theoretically, is a very desirable thing."

"I would use the influence of my position to try and work out transfers between the present elevated and surface systems. I would try it at different points in the first instance and extend it if it turned out to be a satisfactory addition to transportation."

Throughout his statement Mr. Insull made it perfectly plain that he was speaking only as the head of the elevated lines. He is responsible for much greater interests, the growth and prosperity of which are directly dependent upon the enlargement of Chicago, which can be retarded by the delay or denial of the best transportation. Probably he is now considering other interests because he is now joined with the surface lines in advancing unified operation and consolidated control.

But Mr. Insull made it clear that consolidated ownership is not an absolute prerequisite of improved transit service. Who desires to combat this authority?

STEVE PROMISES EXPOSE OF BANK GRAFT IN INDIANA

Kokomo Officials Consider
Grand Jury Call.

Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—A tale of amazing intrigue concerning illegal banking practices in Indiana will be unfolded before the Howard county grand jury, if convened at the call of Prosecuting Attorney Homer R. Miller, according to D. C. Stephenson, life tinner at Michigan City and former klan dragon, in an interview Wednesday with the press and Grover C. Bishop, receiver of the defunct American Trust company.

Prosecutor Miller stated he was impressed with information given by Stephenson and that if the leads he had to work on bear fruit he would immediately call the Howard county grand jury to hear the ex-klan head's story.

Stephenson named 20 persons said to be involved in state official and banking circles with his latest threatened "expose."

Involves All Classes.
"I have no faith in the Marion county grand jury, but if the Howard county grand jury is called, I will only be too glad to go before it and tell them a most amazing tale concerning illegal banking practices in Indiana which will be sufficient to return several indictments against the parties involved," Stephenson declared. Many of the persons Stephenson involved in his latest effort to "tell all" are klansters; some are Democrats, while most are Republicans, Prosecutor Miller said.

Three Already Indicted.
Miller would not divulge the details of the two hour interview, but said he was convinced of Stephenson's sincerity.

Stephenson declared banks all over Indiana have been engaged in practices similar to those found here and in the First National bank at La Grange. Clyde Walib, Republican state chairman, was indicted last week for violation of federal banking laws as a result of the La Grange bank scandal. Already there have been indictments here Ova Davies, former state treasurer; Luther Symons, present state bank commissioner; and Thomas D. Barr, deputy Symons.

"You have started something here that is bigger than you expected, young man," Stephenson told Miller. "If you keep at it, they will either crush you or you will win a brilliant victory. You have no idea yet of the power of the group into which this trail of corruption leads. The 'brains' of the plot is the only one of the lot who really has brains, and he will fatten anything on you he can, from a dead tom cat to a murder."

TRY REPORTER FOR THEFT OF SMITH ARTICLE

Concord, N. H., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Fred H. Thompson, a reporter on the Boston Post, went on trial here today charged with larceny from the Rumford Press of two copies of Gov. Smith's article on "Catholic and Patriot," belonging to the Atlantic Monthly.

The prosecutor said he would show that Thompson came to New Hampshire for the purpose of obtaining Gov. Smith's letter to publish in the Post in advance of the issuance of the Atlantic Monthly and that he used misrepresentation to get possession of the letter.

The first witness was Sheriff O'Dowd. He testified that Thompson in course of a call that lasted an hour or more brought out his desire to get possession of Gov. Smith's letter. O'Dowd said he was desirous to do anything he could to help Gov. Smith and agreed that this letter should receive wide publication, so he told Thompson to call on Eugene Sullivan, who in turn directed him to see William E. Callahan, night watchman at the Rumford plant.

Callahan admitted getting the copy of Gov. Smith's letter for Thompson, after the latter had said he was sent there by O'Dowd and Sullivan. Thompson had told him the Klu Klux Klan had taken steps to see that Smith's reply to Mr. Marshall would not be widely distributed.

Defense counsel attempted to lay a foundation to prove that the eight pages from the Atlantic Monthly, containing the statement of Gov. Smith was merely waste paper, worth from $1 to $20 a ton, and consequently had no such value as was attributed to it by the magazine and the Rumford Press.

STATE RESTS IN SHELTON GANG ROBBERY TRIAL

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—After six Kincaid residents had identified the three Shelton brothers, southern Illinois gangsters, as members of the bandit gang that held up the Kincaid Trust and Savings bank in 1924, the state rested its case late this afternoon. Art Newman, former lieutenant of the Sheltons, serving a life sentence for murder, and Robert Summers, also serving a sentence in the Chester penitentiary, added damaging evidence to the state's case.

"That's a hot spot. What little loot we got, we dropped," Newman said. Carl Shelton told him after the robbery, "Earl got a bad wound in his leg in that job," Carl told him, Newman said. Later, when he saw Earl Shelton, he was walking with a cane, Newman said. "That was pretty tough. We lost the payroll and I came away losing my life in that job," Carl Shelton said, Newman declared.

BILLION AND HALF LOST YEARLY TO FARMS—HAUGEN

Figures Cost of Veto in Address Here.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

American farmers would be getting nearly a billion and a half dollars more for their products each year if they were marketing them under the provisions of the McNary-Haugen agricultural relief measure vetoed at the last session of congress by President Coolidge, according to figures given yesterday by Congressman Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, who spoke before Chicago business men at the City club.

The co-author of the farmers' bill indicated that he was confident the measure will again be passed by the house and the senate, with a good chance of being approved by the President. The pending bill still retains the equalization fee feature which was so strongly opposed by the President. An attempt has been made to draft the measure with most of the features opposed by the President taken out.

Sees Benefit to Farmers.

Mr. Haugen believes that the new bill will enable farmers to market their products and get their share of the $7,000,000,000 added to the wealth of this country through the enforcement of such laws as the tariff, transportation, and immigration acts. He pointed out that the added agricultural income of approximately $1,442,000,000 brought about by the McNary-Haugen bill, if it is made a law, would more than pay off the farmers' debts within eleven years, instead of them having an average shortage of $1,175, as they did last year, where they allowed 6 per cent interest on their investments.

7,777 Farmer Bankruptcies.

There are 7,777 farmers included in the 47,000 cases of volunteer bankruptcy in the attorney general's report for the year ending June 30, according to Mr. Haugen. He also showed that there is a tremendous disparity between the farmers and other classes of working people.

"Statistics show," he said, "that the farmer's annual income is $730, which includes a sum of $650 for fuel, light, and housing for the farm, while the income of those engaged in manufacturing is $1,572, of ministers $1,298, of teachers $1,650, and of those engaged in transportation service $2,190."

Take Up Plans to Aid Vets

Tardy with Bonus Papers
Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The advisability of extending legislative aid to about 25,000 world war veterans who failed to get their adjusted service certificates to the veterans' bureau before Dec. 31 was taken up today by Republican members of the house ways and means committee. The situation developed over a ruling by the controller general that the certificates should have been on file by Dec. 31 instead of only in the mail by that date.

INDICT HICKMAN AND HUNT FOR HOLDUP MURDER

Kidnaper Enters Plea of Insanity.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt, his 16 year old accomplice in a career of crime, were indicted and arraigned within an hour's time today for the murder of C. Ivy Thomas, a druggist, during a holdup.

Hickman immediately went into court and entered a plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity. Judge Charles P. Hardy set his trial for the Thomas murder for Feb. 1. Hickman's trial for the kidnaping and murder of Marian Parker is set for Jan. 25.

Drop Other Inquiries.
Hunt, who is only 16, asked through his attorney to have his case tried in juvenile court. He was taken before Judge Robert Scott of the juvenile bench, but Judge Scott refused to accept the case. He certified the murder trial back to Judge Hardy, and Hunt was given until next Tuesday to plead to the indictment.

The district attorney's office announced that with the second murder indictment all other murder investigations have been dropped in Hickman's case.

County Jailer Frank Dewar and Hickman's other guards today asserted that Hickman is setting the scenery for an insanity defense. He demanded a Bible and read it feverishly all day, clutching the book even through meal time. He muttered constantly.

Will Ask Board of Alienists.

Dr. Samuel M. Marcus, one of the alienists who examined Hickman two nights ago at the request of Attorney Jerome Walsh, today said that he will recommend an impartial board of seven alienists to examine the killer.

It was predicted that Hunt would testify against Hickman in the holdup murder trial. This prediction was based on the announcement of Hunt's attorney that his client would plead guilty to charges arising from the fatal robbery.

BRITISH BOGY COVERS YANKEES IN SHIP DEAL

Shipping Board's Agent
Refutes Charges.

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 5.—Carl L. Seitz, local American agent for the United States shipping board, today made an affidavit saying that $1,000,000 which he recently advanced to purchase American cargo steamers was American and not British capital.

Mr. Seitz's action was taken as a result of the circulation of rumors alleging that he was acting in behalf of British interests, which allegedly were trying to obtain a financial foothold on American shipping in the Pacific. William P. Hunt, representative of the shipping board here, instituted an inquiry, with the result that Mr. Seitz today made the affidavit that he obtained his $1,000,000 from the Portland firm of Dant & Russell.

Manager for British Firm.
Mr. Seitz, who is an American citizen, was born in China and long has been associated with British financial and commercial interests as the general manager of the China Import and Export Lumber company, a British concern handling American lumber. In addition he is director of another British concern, Arnold & Co. of Shanghai.

and London, which handles a large percentage of the Chinese raw products shipped to America. Arnold & Co. is closely associated with the British financial house of David Sassoon, which has large interests in India.

Mr. Seitz recently obtained prominence in the news by promoting Anglo-American cooperation in China. He participated in the presentation of a set of fives and drums to the American marines in behalf of the British Green Howard regiment, stationed in Shanghai.

$3,000,000 Ship Pool.

Mr. Seitz's offer of $1,000,000 for shipping board boats constituted his contribution toward a financial pool offer of $3,000,000 for sixty cargo steamers of the Pacific property of the shipping board. The pool includes the Columbia Pacific company of Portland, which advanced $4,000,000; Swayne & Hoyt of San Francisco, which advanced $1,000,000; and the Robert Dollar interests of San Francisco, which advanced $2,000,000.

It is rumored the shipping board is making a further investigation before making the awards because of allegations against Seitz and the fact that the shipping board recently canceled a contract with Swayne & Hoyt.

LAWYER'S WILL URGES CHILDREN TO SERVE NATION

Divides R.H. Parkinson's
$615,000 Among 3.

Counsel to his children, advising drift, kindness, and loyalty to society, country and God, is included in the will of the late Robert H. Parkinson, Chicago attorney, which was filed yesterday before Assistant Probate Judge Edward S. Scheffler.

His church, alma mater, domestic help and office employees are remembered in the will, but the bulk of the $615,000 estate is left to the three children, Miss Elizabeth Drake Parkinson, 399 Lake Shore drive; Mrs. June Parkinson Manierre of Norfolk, Va., and Sterling B. Parkinson, conductor of the Investors' Guide for THE TRIBUNE.

Gives Financial Advice.

Financial advice written in the final testament by Mr. Parkinson six months before his death on Dec. 26 reads:

"I recommend to my children that they observe, in the use of whatever they may receive under this will and any trust of which they are beneficiaries, such prudence and economy as to keep their expenses well within their incomes, so as to provide against emergencies or losses; that they always keep a substantial portion of what they receive from me invested in sound revenue producing securities, of which only the income shall be expended."

Counsel for Children.

The will closes with the plea: "I entrust my children to live earnestly, honorably, industriously, discharging every duty to each other and to mankind faithfully, affectionately among themselves, and devoutly revering and serving God and their country."

Dartmouth college is bequeathed $10,000 and the Central church of Chicago is left $5,000.

WOMAN KILLS OWN LIFE.

Mrs. Maximilian Umek, 43 years old, 5120 North Radnor avenue, committed suicide by shooting herself in the left temple in the kitchen of her home yesterday. A previous attempt at suicide because of ill health was made by her last year.

BOARD TO HEAR OUSTED PASTOR'S PLEA WEDNESDAY

The appeal of the Rev. J. A. L. Warren of Durand, Ill., expelled last October from the Methodist Episcopal church, will be heard next Wednesday. The expulsion was ordered by the Rock River conference, which met in the First Methodist church of Oak Park.

His accuser, Hazel Lamb, was married ten days after the conclusion of the Warren trial and that fact will be urged in the appeal as presumptive evidence that her testimony against Dr. Warren was unreliable. It also has been asserted that she signed a repudiation of her charges. Since then she and her husband, William Lathery, have disappeared. The appeal committee will be presided over by Bishop E. L. Waldorf.

of Kansas City, Mo., and will be composed of 15 ministers, five each from the Illinois, central Illinois and North-west German conferences. The ministers representing the defense will be the same as at the conference trial, the Rev. John Thompson, the Rev. F. S. Fleming, and the Rev. Quincy R. Wright of Rockford.

"THE MUSIC OF WHAT HAPPENS"

IFE, the Great Conductor, raises his baton and from four corners of the earth comes the great symphony of What Happens...

In Russia, Trotsky damns a Tribune correspondent for persistence... six million dollars in gleaming gold are shipped to the Argentine... Al Smith tells his dry law views... Tribune London correspondent cables British flare-up at Coolidge message... Chicago council plans more double-decked streets... Vienna correspondent cables of new riots... Mexico City telephones of Calles invitation to Lindbergh—every political, social and economic happening is there, black on white in your morning Tribune!

A thousand eyes and a thousand ears could not see and hear what the World's Greatest Newspaper brings to you in print every day. Hundreds of men and women, keen, news-hungry, unflagging, patrol the thoroughfares of the universe. Ships, trains, motor cars and 'planes transport them where history is being made. Photographs and word-pictures are flashed to Tribune foreign offices to be hurried across space to the Tribune Tower, monolith of the world's most efficient news agency. Wherever a significant chord is struck, you will find Tribune people recording every note of it... The Music of What Happens.

News is the elusive, costly ingredient which makes newspapers great. The World's Greatest Newspaper is so highly regarded by other publishers that 29 leading American newspapers maintain special leased wires into The Tribune office so they may share in Tribune scoops. Some 402 other papers regularly buy Tribune features, art and articles. European newspapers often get European news from The Chicago Tribune quicker than from their own European correspondents. Hundreds of thousands of people see the flashing stride of civilization's advance as it passes before them on Tribune pages. To get world news first, to read it while the echoes of events are still sounding, more than 775,044 people buy The Chicago Tribune each week-day—1,152,481 buy their Tribune every Sunday. Their experience has proved they can trust what they read in The Tribune.

Under the riveting hammer's machine-gun crescendo beats the sombre dirge of the ram battering down the greatness of Yesterday... aloft is the optimistic pizzicato of Tomorrow's promise... and the great Director's baton weaves them all into a narrative symphony, starting with the crash of the dawn and ending with the lullaby of the sunset. Every day this symphony is new—it is The Music of What Happens!

Abraham Lincoln praised The Chicago Tribune's reader influence. The Tribune carried first word of Dewey's victory at Manila to McKinley. The Tribune gave advance copies of the Versailles Treaty to the Senate. In everyday news, too, The Tribune is as far ahead. Forceful, frankly written, The Daily Tribune has more circulation in Chicago and suburbs alone than the total circulation of any other Chicago week-day newspaper. In addition, The Tribune is the preferred newspaper of 20% to 90% of the families in 1412 cities and towns throughout the Chicago territory.

Because The Tribune does the world's greatest news-gathering job, it is of incalculable value as a newspaper and an advertising medium. The confidence which The Tribune has built in itself is shared by its advertisers. Supreme in its field, The Tribune has always offered the high quality of its advertising columns at a quantity price. Well-advised advertisers are planning now to concentrate in The Tribune in 1928—place your orders early!

BRITISH CALL U.S. PLAN TO OUTLAW WAR A FRAMEUP

"Why Not Make Senate Arbitral Body?"

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 5.—"Benevolent interest" is the official British attitude toward the Washington proposals to outlaw war, but outside of official circles they are coming in for strong criticism. The government has only received from Washington a copy of the first note to France and has no official confirmation of the report that Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg proposes to try to extend the outlawry of war to the whole world. If he has such an intention it is likely he will have to modify the proposals considerably before securing the agreement of any first class power.

"Heads I Win" Proposition.

It is pointed out by students of diplomacy that the proposed pact with France, which presumably is the pattern for the others, is a case of "heads I win, tails you lose," for the United States. Mr. Kellogg's plan exempts arbitration from everything that matters. It is pointed out, and then states that no decision of an arbitration court is binding on the United States until approved by the senate.

"Why not make the senate the arbitral body in the first place?" asked one diplomat, "and so save time."

JAPAN FAVORABLE

BY RODERICK MATHEWSON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TOKIO, Jan. 5.—The American proposal for a multilateral anti-war pact strikes a responsive chord in Japan, according to a few officials interviewed, although the informal communication of the text of the note comes in the midst of the holidays, when the government offices are deserted.

Premier Tanaka expressed appreciation of the American efforts for world peace and said Japan is in entire accord with the spirit of Secretary Kellogg's proposal. However, he believes the matter is not one to be decided lightly and when the formal proposal reaches Japan it will require deep study.

According to a foreign office spokesman, Japan would welcome a formal communication on the subject, when America will find Japan receptive.

France Takes Up Proposal.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—The French cabinet today undertook consideration of the negotiations between France and the United States for a pact to outlaw war when Foreign Minister Briand presented Secretary Kellogg's proposed treaty text and informed his colleagues of the state of the negotiations. In the opinion of official circles, the pact as it is now being elaborated will in no way affect the obligations of France as a member of the league of nations. The understanding is that a resolution to outlaw war will be incorporated in the preamble to the treaty of arbitration being negotiated separately between France and the United States and that similar agreements will be made between the United States and other countries with an arbitration treaty attached to give juridical form to the anti-war resolution.

Congressman Sabath Is Ill; Kept Home by Doctor

Because of illness, Congressman A. J. Sabath of the 6th district was unable to join the procession of Chicagoans that started for the national capital yesterday. His physicians have ordered complete rest.

"It is the first time he has been absent in all his twenty-one years' service," Morris Sabath, a brother, said. "But he will be unable to go until his physician gives the word. There is a heart ailment, but we believe it is not serious."

Gets at the source of decayed teeth

Thousands of people who brush their teeth carefully every day are disheartened to see their teeth decay. They are content to use the ordinary inefficient tooth brush which cleans only 65% of the teeth. An ordinary tooth brush cleans the front and back surfaces of the teeth, but it does not clean between the teeth.

And between the teeth is the place where the majority of decay starts.

Dentists, realizing the serious need of attacking this source, perfected a brush that penetrates between the teeth, a tooth brush that cleans not 65% of the teeth but 100% of the teeth.

The Clean-Be-Tween not only cleans both sides of the teeth but it also cleans between the teeth. The Clean-Be-Tween is more than a new kind of tooth brush—it is a new way of keeping the teeth cleaner and healthier than they've ever been before.

E. W. MARLAND, OIL MAGNATE, TO WED GIRL HE AND WIFE ADOPTED

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—E. W. Marland, head of the oil company bearing his name and one of the outstanding figures in the oil industry in Oklahoma, announced today his engagement to Miss Lydia Miller Roberts, whom he and his former wife adopted in 1916. Mrs. Marland died two years ago.

Mr. Marland's announcement confirmed rumors current for about a month. He announced that the wedding would be at the home of Miss Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Roberts of Philadelphia, in about a month. Miss Roberts is 28 years old; Mr. Marland is 55.

Mr. Marland recently awarded a prize for a statue of "A Pioneer Woman," chosen out of twelve designs submitted. The statue is to be erected near Ponca City, Okla., where he has headquarters and his home. The oil man is widely known throughout the southwest and lives in Oklahoma on an estate which is one of the show places of the state.

WILL TAKE YEARS TO FIX GERMAN REPARATIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The question of how long it will take years to settle the question arising from the recommendations of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, that a fixed amount of German war reparations should be set as early as possible and Germany be allowed to pay it without foreign supervision of her fiscal affairs.

"It is a problem that must be decided by numerous international conferences which must receive the sanction of parliament," declared one official who declined to be quoted by name. So far as the United States is concerned, he pointed out, this country is interested only to the point where it is concerned over any important international financial settlement. Germany has settled her debt to the United States, he said, by agreeing to pay the $200,000,000 costs of the army of occupation and is now making payments under the Dawes plan.

Will Not Take Initiative.

Various high officials declared without qualification that the United States will not take the initiative in promoting these conferences destined to agree upon the total which Germany will be expected to pay, and there is no disposition on the part of this government to agree to terms emanating from France that the French debt to the United States be reduced by the amount that Germany fails to pay France.

Published reports that the United States plans a world parley for a complete revision of the war debt, including that of Germany, with international bonds as the medium of settlement, was branded by Secretary Mellon today as untrue and without foundation.

"It's bosh," he asserted with a bang of his fist on his desk.

No International Bonds.

He said he had talked with Mr. Gilbert over the operation of the Dawes plan and the German debt situation, but international bonds were not in the mind of the agent general and were not contemplated in his official report.

The fixing of a definite amount for Germany to pay is specifically provided in the Dawes plan, which was intended only to save Germany from financial chaos and ruin, it was pointed out by an expert who aided in the draft of the plan. Under it, he said, Germany never would be able to pay its present obligations, but until a basis of settlement is reached the Dawes plan will continue to operate as there is no time limit to its operation.

"Only the most rash expect Germany to be able to pay her $33,000,000,000 war debt," this official added.

Three Admit 40 Robberies, Keeping Record, Police Say

Three Negroes, arrested by Sgt. Sikowski of the Brookfield police, confessed yesterday, it was said at the detective bureau, that they had been involved in forty robberies and burglaries in Chicago's suburbs. Earl Shields, 3100 Ellis avenue, leader of the band, is declared to have admitted that he aided in robbing the Third National bank at Rockford last July. The others are Leroy and William McNight, brothers. Shields, it was said, carried a notebook with complete records of their crimes, neatly tabulated as "Job No. 1," "Job No. 2," etc., and showing how the loot had been divided.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Second Warning

"Il Trovatore" Is Humdinger, Elmer's Verdict

He's Glad 19 Cities Heard
That Broadcast.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The second and third acts of Verdi's perennially lovely, tuneful, vocally and scenically colorful romance "Il Trovatore," from the Auditorium stage, were broadcast through W-G-N, KYW, WEBB, WMAQ and WENR.

That was a humdinger of an attraction for a listener, and it was the first time that I have heard the present series of weekly opera broadcasts through my receiving set in the Tribune tower.

It is a grand hour indeed when any complicated broadcast is seemingly so perfect in all its details that no weak spots could be found. Such was this broadcast.

As it happened, this section of "Il Trovatore" contained much more typical music than was the case in the broadcast of the second act of "Lohengrin" last week. And last night the stars in the cast were heard to full advantage. Nor was there any diminution of individual voice quality in the concerted numbers.

Grand opera broadcast from Chicago to nineteen distant cities, from Boston and New York in the east, to Omaha

THIRD LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION MEANS JAIL IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—[Special.]

A jail sentence is compulsory for a third offense against the state prohibition laws, Justice P. W. Houser of the state Appellate court held in an opinion handed down today.

The decision wipes out a number of technicalities which have surrounded prosecutions under the Wright act. The opinion was rendered on the appeal of Tride Gonzales of San Bernardino, Cal. She was fined $500 and sentenced to a year in the county jail.

and Kansas City in the west, made one proud.

A bit of diversion: At one of the stations at 8:15 there was an all-Chopin piano recital going on. But the time keeping was so ragged that, becoming restless, I turned the dials and in came a group of banjoists from New York. Their snap, rhythmic swing and jaunty air were irresistible. I concluded that it isn't so much what is done, but how well. This was one of those prepared to the last lota New York chain broadcasts through W-G-N, 8 to 9.

On another New York chain broadcast through KYW (8 to 9) there was a trio oddity in the form of a bassoon, bass clarinet, and an English horn, and their musical capers as they waded along were good enough for the ear of a throne king.

I would pause a moment over the predicament that "10:10 o'clock, W-G-N: Sam 'n' Henry" have fallen into. But I wish to close with the scintillating harmonies that this station's Music Box turns out nightly.

SCHWAB SAYS HE'S HAD FIFTY YEARS OF HAPPY LIFE

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]

Charles M. Schwab, the steel man, outlined his philosophy of life to 500 members and guests of the Arbitration Society of America at a luncheon in his honor today. He said he learned from Andrew Carnegie to approach life in a happy frame of mind and to seek the friendship of his fellow men. He was awarded the society's peace medal in recognition of his services in furtherance of industrial peace.

"I can only wish for all of you that you may have the happiness I have had in 50 years of business life," he said. "After fifty years I have not sored on humanity. The business men of America are a lot of straightforward men, seeking to do business squarely and honestly."

"The most pleasant thing in life is not the accumulation of wealth but to be able to stand here as I am today surrounded by my friends after having won their approval."

"I have never had a strike and never expect to," Mr. Schwab said, "because I think the men feel I'm square and

CHINESE ENVOYS,
STUDENTS VANISH
IN IRATE MOSCOWRussian Is Executed by Canton Anti-Reds.BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEKING, China, Jan. 5.—A report emanating from Moscow says the Chinese chargé d'affaires there, two embassy attaches, thirty students, and fifteen graduates of the Sun Yat-sen university are missing. It is believed they are victims of state political police. The foreign office, however, is denying the report. The last telegram from the chargé d'affaires, dated Dec. 30, was received in Peking on Jan. 2.

Russian Is Executed.

CANTON, China, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Advices from the island of Honan, opposite Canton, today told of the execution of a Russian, M. Pfluff. He was arrested by the anti-communists on Dec. 27 after his discovery with Russian documents in the red disorders of Dec. 11.

Gen. Li Chai-sum, whose troops drove Gen. Li Ku-han from Canton to Hanoi on Dec. 25, has arrived here from Hongkong. He received an ovation from the merchants, who welcome his return as a moderate after the recent bloodshed of the anti-communist disorders. The attitude of Gen. Li Chai-sum and his Kwangsi forces toward Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, who has

LAKE ICE THREATENS
WATER SHORTAGE
ON NORTH SHORE

Divers were attempting last night to free the water mains from Evanston to Lake Forest of submerged ice formations, which it was said threaten to obstruct the intakes and create a water shortage on the north shore.

The situation became acute in Evanston yesterday, Chief Engineer Charles Lapp reported. The mouths of the water mains were clogged to such an extent that half of Evanston's daily water supply of 8,000,000 gallons came from reservoir tanks, he said.

Unless the divers succeed in clearing away the ice, Mr. Lapp said, it will be necessary to use the booster pumps which take the water directly from the lake into the filtration plant. This is an expensive emergency measure, he added.

Report Red Terror Reigns.
HANKOW, China, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Chinese reports from the province of Hupeh say sharp communist disorders have broken out, resulting in a virtual reign of terror, looting and massacre by the communists.

Local Chinese communists are being executed almost daily by the garrison of the Whangtze (Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang).

Small boat travel on the Yangtze river between Hankow and Wuchang virtually has been halted because of the depredations of pirates, who have their headquarters in Wuchang. These pirates have been stopping boats and robbing passengers, killing one Chinese and wounding two others in their latest raid.

The Hupeh provincial cabinet and wine tax bureau announced that, effective today, a 50 per cent ad valorem tax will be placed on cigarettes, in conformity with instructions from the Nanking ministry of finance.

MEXICO TO BURY TEACHERS WITH STATE HONORSCalls Them Benefactors of Nation.BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 5.—Through the department of education Mexico has done an honor to its teachers in advance of all nations. It was announced today that henceforth teachers are to be treated as benefactors of the nation and honors are to be paid to them on their retirement from service, with pensions.

Funeral with Honors.
Teachers dying while in active service, or after retirement on pension, or honorable discharge from the service, are to be buried with all honors as public benefactors, and a guard of honor will take turns watching by the bier of each and accompanying the remains to the final resting place.

The aim of the department of education in paying such honors to teachers is to dignify the profession in the eyes of the public and the teachers themselves.

Want 1,000 More Teachers.
The attitude of the education department and the government toward the teaching profession is significant in view of the fact that the department of education, the only one which had its budget increased for the present year, has issued a call for 1,000 additional teachers to go into the new rural schools, most of which will open when the school year begins on March 1. The new schools are expected to handle 100,000 illiterate students.

COSGRAVE LAUDS
U. S. ON EVE OF
AMERICAN TOURBY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 5.—President William T. Cosgrave, entertained at a farewell banquet by the city of Dublin tonight on the eve of his visit to America, delivered an emotional speech. He accepted the banquet as an "expression of Dublin's pleasure at the decision to send a mission to the United States to convey in behalf of the Irish people, to the President of the American people, greetings, good wishes and congratulations for the prosperity they had attained, and thanks for their interest in Ireland's welfare."

"We also send our high appreciation of the cordial relations between the two countries and a sincere hope that the bonds of friendship will grow stronger with the passing years," he said. "The visit is nonpolitical. It is undertaken by us, representing all the citizens and every institution in the state. It is a recognition of the good will extended to us by the great country where so many of our kinsmen have made their homes, and of whose progress we are proud.

Ireland's connection with America dates back to its beginnings, from the Declaration of Independence. The affection of exiled kinsmen for their homeland is shown in many ways, not the least of which is the gifts at Christmastide annually of $3,000,000 ($15,000,000)."

Thanks U. S. for Help.
President Cosgrave referred to America's help and sympathy in the struggle for Irish independence and its support of the Free State's recent national loan.

"The purpose of my visit is to thank the American people for their manifestations, and I hope that one result will be that Ireland will become better known to Americans in commercial relations and that American tourists will see more of our beautiful scenery, hunting, and fishing," he concluded.

CROWDS THROG CLEARANCE IN BIG STATE STREET STORE

BEFORE THE STORE OPENED ITS DOORS. Eager throngs gathered at the entrance, awaiting the nine o'clock opening of the greatest clearance sale in the history of Mandel Brothers' 72 years! Twelve selling floors are included in this stupendous event. These early arrivals are only a few of the thousands of thrifty Chicagoans who yesterday took advantage of the tremendous values in this sale.

NOT A GARDEN IN SUNNY ITALY. But a scene in Mandel Brothers gay Third Floor Palmetto Shop yesterday, where gorgeous shawls from Italy, France, and China are selling for $35 in the store's greatest clearance. The last previous selling price was $9.50.

AT 9:10 O'CLOCK. The first floor, State street side, of Mandel Brothers, was filled with enthusiastic purchasers, taking immediate advantage of the amazing values in Mandel Brothers unprecedented clearance.

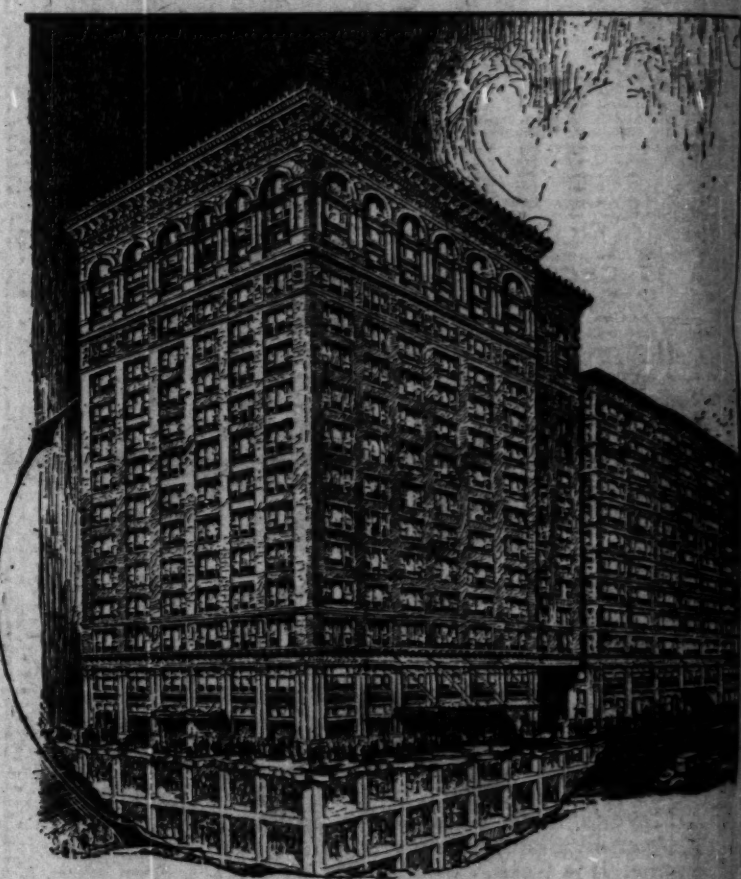

"OH, IT'S BEAUTIFUL!" Miss Carlotta Miles, of the "Desert Song," exclaimed when she saw this dress of the sheerest black transparent velvet and metal cloth. She was even more delighted when she discovered that it was reduced, in Mandel Brothers' clearance sale, to $75—a saving of more than one-third.

BEHIND THE SHIRT COUNTER. An easy job for Mel Saunders and Ed Faber, salesmen in Mandel Brothers Men's Shops, when $5 shirts are selling for 1.95. They say everybody's cheerful when values are so big, in spite of the tremendous crowds.

BROADCASTING A RARE VALUE! Uncle Bob (Walter Wilson) of Station KYW, Westinghouse Radio, stops in at Mandel Brothers Men's Shops and distributes some of his well-known cheer when he finds a handsome imported English ulster selling during the clearance for $38. The last previous selling price was $55. The Men's Shops yesterday were filled with pleased customers, all tremendously satisfied with the values offered.

TWELVE BIG SELLING FLOORS IN THIS GREAT HOUSE CLEANING. Mandel Brothers are making a sweeping clearance, offering the greatest values known during their 72 years of history. Not only ten upstairs selling floors, but the upper and lower subways are included.

MONEY IN THE BANK! Little Bessie Schmitz, 530 Monticello, depositing the money that she has saved on her black and velvet dress, bought for $15 in Mandel Brothers clearance sale. It is a replica of a Paris model, and the last previous selling price was more than double this amount.

A BANNER DAY IN THE SILKS. Yesterday, the first day of Mandel Brothers 12-selling-floor clearance sale, offered values so tremendous that the greatest crowds known in the 72 years of the department's history thronged the second floor silk aisles.

TUNNEY ADOPTS KEARNS' IDEAS FOR PUBLICITY

Starts Ballyhoo for Bigger Bouts.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Jan. 5.—There is something strangely familiar about the current business discommodation between Gene Tunney and Tex Rickard and there are persons of cynical mind who believe that Mr. Tunney does not mean what he says but is only making discommodative gestures in order to create what the advertising engineers would call a prize fight consciousness in the customers. You may recall that when Jack Dempsey was champion of the world his man, Jack Kearns, enlisted the dull wits of the advertising engineers to create a prize fight consciousness in the customers. You may recall that when Jack Dempsey was champion of the world his man, Jack Kearns, enlisted the dull wits of the advertising engineers to create a prize fight consciousness in the customers.

Kearns Had Ideas. Thus far Mr. Tunney has not introduced the slightest improvement on the Kearns system and for that matter there is no reason why he should do so. The Kearns system was simple and it got publicity next to pure reading matter.

On a quiet January evening it would occur to Mr. Kearns that his gentleman was not receiving adequate notice in the newspapers. Realizing that in order to draw million dollar gates in August he must keep the public mind of the heavyweights of the sport in the public mind of the heavyweights of the sport.

On a quiet January evening it would occur to Mr. Kearns that his gentleman was not receiving adequate notice in the newspapers. Realizing that in order to draw million dollar gates in August he must keep the public mind of the heavyweights of the sport in the public mind of the heavyweights of the sport.

Here's an Example. "These people are all so rich," Mr. Kearns would say, "that money is just a nuisance to them, so the proposition is to get up a select little group of one hundred Argentine sportsmen and hold this fight in the private garden of Sefior 'I've got his name here somewhere. No, it's home. These sportsmen say they are willing to pay $100,000 apiece just to see the show, and that would make a purse of ten million dollars. Of course, that would keep the public out, and that's what I want to do. I want to see the champion figure that the public ought to have a chance to see the fight."

"Of course, it's hard to turn down this kind of a proposition," Mr. Kearns would continue, "but we don't want to commercialize the game, and if Rickard will meet this offer half way we will talk to the fight."

"Of course, it's hard to turn down this kind of a proposition," Mr. Kearns would continue, "but we don't want to commercialize the game, and if Rickard will meet this offer half way we will talk to the fight."

It may be disrespectful to speak of Mr. Tunney and Mr. Kearns in common because Mr. Tunney is one who delivers orations to the Boy Scouts on the great virtues of sincerity and truthfulness, but it must be remembered also that he is in the show, business and never receives so much publicity but that he can stand more.

Apply High Pressure. This winter's heavyweight elimination tournament which is being waged, not to find a challenger, but to keep the third Dempsey-Tunney affair in the minds of the customers, has not been proceeding very well. The boys have been easy about taking to the ring, there being such good thieving of one kind and another nowadays that all are afraid of being out-burgled. Consequently, the interest in the heavyweight championship fight which should have reached a lively simmer by this time, is not even warm.

I believe Mr. Tunney is trying to remedy this deficiency, and one way to do it is for the heavyweights to announce that he considered Tex Rickard a dubious character and is entertaining a proposition to defend the title in Hartford, Conn., under the combined auspices of the Scientific American and the Rockefeller Foundation, with Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale university, as promoter, in cooperation with Humbert Pogany.

LOMSKI FIGHTS LOUGHRAN FOR TITLE TONIGHT

First Championship Bout of New Season.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Jan. 5.—(Special.)

Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion, will inaugurate the new year in a manner designed to sustain his promise that he would be a fighting champion when he clashes with Leo Lomski at Madison Square Garden in a bout scheduled to go fifteen rounds. It will be the first championship encounter of the year.

The odds in Loughran's favor are based upon his skill as a boxer and the fact that an aggressive fighter of Lomski's type is made to order for his style. The opinion is that Loughran will look better against Lomski than he did against Jimmy Slattery.

At all events there is no gainsaying that the Philadelphia is not stalling as a champion. He is fighting as often as he can and against the best opponents that are offered him. It is more important for him to defeat Lomski than it is for Lomski to defeat Loughran.

Should Loughran lose tomorrow night his long drive for recognition will come to an early end. For Lomski will be only a temporary setback.

Wants to Meet Tunney. Loughran won the title by defeating Mike McTigue and subsequently outpointing Slattery. He is ambitious to develop from a light heavyweight into a heavyweight with an eye to a chance at Gene Tunney. Lomski's notable performance of recent date has been victories over Harold May and Maxie Rosenbloom and a knockout over Willie Walker.

The main event will be preceded by three eight round bouts that also promise plenty of action. The semi-final will be between E. O. Phil Kaplan and Babe McGorray. There should be plenty of slugging in this bout. James J. Braddock will meet Paul Swiderski. The first eight rounder will be between Jimmy Byrne and Jack Warren. A four round opener will see Tony Ferrante against Mercer Gehman.

WALKER SUEDED BY MOVIE CONCERN;
TRIAL DEFERRED

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, was in Supreme court today to defend a $25,000 breach of contract suit brought by the Stadium Pictures corporation. The trial was adjourned until next week.

"I'm a fighter and not a movie actor," Walker declared. He said he had broken a contract to appear in films for the Stadium company when he learned that the concern had failed to pay Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, on a similar contract.

LOUISIANA DERBY. Skaters representing the Barrett A. C. won the thirty-fourth annual ice skating Derby of the Slesper A. C. last night at Humboldt park by scoring 180 points in the series of eleven events. The Henry playground team scored 120 points for second place, while Opal A. A. skaters were third with 100 marks.

The meet attracted more than 5,000 spectators. The Western Skating association attended. The skaters are tuning up for the annual Silver Skates Derby of the Tribune, which will be held at Washington park on Jan. 21 and 22.

Jacobson Wins Sprint. Keen competition was brought out in the two class A races. In the 440 yard sprint Edward Jacobson of the Opal A. A. was a handy victor. Jacobson jumped the field founding the first turn and set a hard race all the way to the finish line, beating out Henry Nelson of the Midwest A. C. and Herbie Knudsen, who skates under the colors of the Northwest Skates club.

In the class A one mile event Nelson turned the tables on Jacobson. With two laps to go, Nelson cut loose in a fast finish to nose the Opal skater out by inches. Knudsen again finished third. The time for the mile was 3:45.5.

GRANGE FAMILY TO DESERT WHEATON FOR LOS ANGELES
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—The clan of Red Grange shortly will desert Wheaton, Ill., permanently for the environs of Los Angeles, according to Harold Grange himself. The football star is here to spend the next few months on the coast, and announced he already has done considerable shopping for a home for his dad and brother, Garland.

Red says that he and his brother, who played end for Illinois last season, are determined to finish their college careers at Urbana. Red says he probably will go back to end his college work and get his diploma in 1929.

With less than two minutes to play Russell passed to Stonebraker, who slipped one in from back of the foul line, and the crowd became a mass of shrieking madcaps with bonneted tendrils toward the referee.

The five minutes overtime became a battle of shots which hit the rim, while 2,500 maniacs in the stands went into hysterics. The Bruins held the ball most of the time and Wickham, Russell, and Beckman each rimmed the hoop with short shots without losing the ball. Kennedy hit the rim with two long shots and Beckman tried two long ones which also were with half a minute to play, he shot from near the sideline beyond the center circle and the ball slipped through the net without touching the rim. Half a minute of betting for a half ball was declared and the fans went home talking to themselves.

RUBY, ILLINOIS BASKET COACH, OPPOSES DRIBBLE

Would Eliminate Its Use Entirely.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Craig Ruby, University of Illinois basketball coach, advocates elimination of the dribble in basketball not because of the way the game is played in the Big Ten but for its general good.

"The dribble is correct in stating that I favor the elimination of the dribble in basketball," said Ruby today. "The way rules are interpreted in the conference, permitting players to go in and break up stalls, is not any great menace to the popularity of the game in the Big Ten."

Too Much Stalling. "However, I am thinking of the general welfare of the sport, and my belief in the necessity of a change is based on the situation in Illinois basketball, where the stalling attack is carried to an excess. On small high school floors the five man defense proves so strong that it causes stalling. This is prevalent not only in Illinois but everywhere."

"The University of Washington had the most successful stalling team I ever saw. In one game, with 12 minutes to play, Washington obtained a one point lead and began a fast 'keep away' game in the center of the floor which was practically impossible to break up under the coast rule interpretation, which prevents the other team from becoming aggressive. The high school interpretations are much the same."

Stalling Aids Inferior Teams. "Coaches more and more realize that when their team is ahead, it has a better chance to win by going into a stalling attack, and many inferior teams win because the coach has developed this attack."

"My belief that the one bounce roll will create a better game is based on six weeks' practice with it last spring. It means more passes, more intercepted passes and more activity by players generally."

Coaches cannot visualize this by brief experiments as it will take a season for players to adjust themselves to the change.

SMITTY—DOLLARS AND PRESENTS

Saxon, Algot Win Feature Races at N. O.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Payne Whitney of New York beat Edward B. McLean, the Washington publisher, shared honors on this afternoon's racing program at the Fair Grounds.

Mrs. Whitney's 4 year old, Saxon, beat a stylish band and won the Jolson purse at a mile and 70 yards. McLean's Algot romped home as a long shot in the Bush handicap, a dash at 6 furlongs, which served as the secondary feature. Algot's price in the mutuels was $35.22 for each $2.

Saxon fairly smothered his field and nearly everybody at the track backed him for he was only a little better than 1 to 2 as he scored his easy triumph over Jockey G. Ellis' masterly ride. Florence Mills, the front runner for a time, saved second money, and Tannic was third. Neither threatened Saxon's right to lead after he started his run down the stretch.

The disgraceful performance of the favorite Nobile, owned by the Hollowbrook farm stable, somewhat marred the Bush handicap. Usually a fast beginner and a front runner, he showed no speed whatever in today's race.

Gene Adopts Kearns' Idea on Publicity

here, there is a disposition to let Mr. Tunney discontinue at will and a conviction that he, like Mr. Kearns before him, is only doing what he can to keep his name in the papers in preparation for a muggy night next August or September when the customers will be contributing their $40 or $50 each for ringside seats a quarter of a mile from the ring.

ACCEPT NO TICKET ORDERS

A flood of it yesterday along the Chicago boxing frontier indicated the order immediately to prepare tickets for a world's championship heavyweight boxing contest on Soldiers' field.

It was said the real factors in the plan to stage a spectacle in which Gene Tunney again will defend his title here, were somewhat obscured by the fact that some of the suggested promoters are political candidates, and as such, are not adverse to receiving a little notice in the public prints now and then.

Most enthusiastic outbursts, however, are tempered by the existence of certain documents now in possession of Tex Rickard and the Soldiers' field seating charts can not be brought out effectively. It is said, until the champion gets squared away with Mr. Rickard, who is almost exclusively engaged in the prize fight business.

Gene Would Help Democrats. Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board and Democratic candidate for governor, mentioned as the probable promoter of the fight here, yesterday reiterated his plan to keep the spectacle on a high civic plane, with the profits going into various community funds instead of Tex Rickard's jeans. Mr. Cermak stated that he or his representatives would meet Mr. Tunney in Miami, Fla., next week and would talk plans for the impending battle.

It also was said that the fight attraction, if it can be arranged despite Rickard's contract with Tunney, will be offered as bait to bring the Democratic convention here.

Tunney, it is claimed, has said he would like to do something big for the Democratic party, providing he can arrange with Mr. Rickard, who is said to be a Republican.

A big task has been assigned the Chicago Riding club indoor polo team for next Wednesday night. The locals have been matched with the Brooklyn team on that date, the game to be played in the tan bark arena of the Chicago Riding club, on Ontario street at McClurg court.

The Brooklyn riders galloped away with the American open indoor championship last season. The team is stronger this year than last. The hard riding Smith at No. 2 position is playing the best game of his career. Last season he was rated as the best No. 2 player in the country.

The game will begin at 9 o'clock and the lineup of the Riding club team will be Fitzpatrick, Bering, and Corpening. The game will be open to the public and an admission fee of 50 cents charged.

A preliminary game, starting at 8 o'clock, will be played between the Riding club B team and the 124th Field Artillery. Hanna, Behr, and Silverman will compose the Riding club B team.

Sprenger to Fight Ross on Coliseum Card

Promoter James Mullen has completed the card for his boxing show at the North hall, Coliseum, next Tuesday evening.

In addition to the main event between Babe Ruth and Bud Taylor, booked for ten rounds, there will be one eight rounder, three sixes, and a four, as well as a four round emergency bout.

The eight round semi-windup brings together Smiling Springer and Joey Ross at 118 pounds. Ross has boxed Archie Bell, Corporal Izzy Schwartz, Black Bill, Willie Davies, Wee Willie Woods, Emil Paluso, Johnny Breslin, Davey Adelman, Jimmy Russo, and many other top notchers.

Johnny Murphy and Jimmy Black will meet in one of the six round bouts at 126 pounds. Gene McCue faces Carl Gret in another at 158 pounds, and

K. O. White tackles "Snowflake" in the third at 140 pounds.

Les Marriner, University of Illinois heavyweight, meets Bud Doran in the four rounder, while George Kerwin is scheduled to battle Jimmy Mahony in the emergency bout at 135 pounds.

Ruth promises to be a tough foe for the bantam champion. Ruth is a clever boxer and boasts an effective body attack. He possesses a good left and a hard right. He will have a weight advantage of about five pounds over Taylor. Babe's most recent victories were scored over Henry Lenard and Eddie Shea.

Taylor is in fine shape after his fray with Tony Canzoneri in New York. The Hoosier took a hard workout yesterday and battered his sparring partners viciously.

BILLIONS NEEDED BY RAILROADS TO CHEAPEN RATES

By HARPER LEECH.

The place of the railroads in the present business picture is interesting. When the year's totals for 1933 are completely tabulated it will likely be found that so far as freight tonnage is concerned the decline for the year under the high totals of 1932 was just about measured by the decline in soft coal production and a drop in the quantity of farm products amounting to 2.2 per cent. But at that crop total 3.5 per cent over the average crop quantities for the last ten years. In the last ten years the job of the railroads measured in ton miles has increased at a rate of 2.2 per cent per year—a gain in excess of population growth, in the face of the rapid development of truck and barge transport—to say nothing of the increase of pipe line capacity and intercoastal freightage by ship.

The Age notes that a new high record was made in the installation of automatic block signals—5,041 miles of line being so equipped, as against 4,891 the year before. This recalls that the railroads are making heavy expenditures to secure the further safety of one of the safest things in the world—railway passenger traffic, which is declining—while the only class of railway accidents which are showing any serious increase are collisions with automobiles at grade crossings. Notwithstanding the expenditure of vast sums to eliminate grade crossings, the highway mileage of the United States is growing so rapidly that one completion shows a net gain of 622 in the year 1933. Railway mileage of line has declined in the last few years, but the rapid gain in the number of grade crossings and accidents on such crossings is due to the extension of highways, not railways.

It is not impossible that out of this grade crossing problem may come the decisive impulse which will get the railroads out of the financial dead center, which has been hampering their further modernization.

LIVERPOOL SELLS COTTON

Cotton prices were depressed yesterday by selling attributed to Liverpool spot houses, bringing on liquidation. There were rallies at times, but all met selling, and the close was at net loss of 16 to 20 points in Chicago, and 14 to 20 points in other markets. Spots lost 15 points in New York, closing at 19.00, with New Orleans 18.00 points down at 18.00. Houston was 18.00 and Galveston 18.00. Liverpool made gains of 12 to 15, with most sales 16.00 bales.

New Orleans reports good buying by trade in cotton, and advice from the textile industry were in the main said to be more favorable. Weather conditions throughout the greater part of the south were better. Prices follow:

Last year was a difficult period for the meat packing industry, although not wholly unprofitable. But this year bids fair to bring considerable improvement, according to Louis F.
Swift, president of Swift & Co., who issued his annual report yesterday."We look for a satisfactory business in the coming year," he said, "and never been more optimistic about the future of our company. Our results last year are not good enough to brag about in foreign demand made it necessary to sell unusually heavy stocks of pork and lard on the home market. This, combined with high hog prices and inventory shortage, created a difficult situation, but one which is not likely to recur in the near future."

Live Stock Prices Up.

"Live stock prices, considered as a group, continued to rank well among farm products. Taken together they compare favorably with nonagricultural products. This means the purchasing power of live stock during 1927, as compared with 1926, was better than most other farm products and that the meat canner has almost, if not entirely, recovered his pre-war relation to other industries."Total sales for the fiscal year ended
Nov. 5, 1927, exceeded $25,000,000, compared with more than $20,000,000 in the preceding period. Net earnings were $12,000,000, equal to $1.25 a share on the 12,000,000 common stock, and surplus after dividends was $20,492, bringing total surplus to $73,231,702. Net earnings for the previous year were $15, $12,412, equal to $1.03 a share, and surplus after dividends was $3,445,242.

Slack in Credit Demand.

A slackening in the demand for credit following the year-end settlement period and a return flow of money to the money centers is shown in the weekly report of the federal reserve bank. In the last week loans dropped $38,330,000, while bank deposits increased $1,601,
000. Government securities increased
$24,277,000. Deposits increased $63,223, 000. Note circulation fell $52,488,000, and total reserves expanded $3,401,000, and $27,000,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities rose 7.2 from 66.8 per cent a week ago. Gold exports were $12,295,000, but imports were $10, 322,000.The New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 3 1/2 per cent discount rate. Its statement shows loans declined $4,716,000, while deposits increased $4,943,000. Reserves expanded $90,830,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 83.0 from 81.4 per cent. At Chicago loans increased $1,262,000 and deposits expanded $8,100,000. Reserves declined $6,018, 000 and the reserve ratio fell to 89.4 from
70.3 per cent a week ago.2 CORPORATION

Credit Report.

G. L. Greif Bros. Cooperative reports net profit of $75,421 after estimated federal taxes for the year ended Oct. 31, 1927, as compared with $64,140 for the preceding fiscal year.This is equal to $4.30 a share on the net par class A stock and $1.31 a share on the class B stock in the 1927 year, against $7.87 a share on class A and $5.54 a share on class B in the 1926 year.Profit and loss surplus stood at $472, 100 on Oct. 31, 1927, compared with $367,
604 on Oct. 31, 1926.Current assets were $2,217,000 and current liabilities $771,218 on Oct. 31, 1927.This leaves net working capital of $1,445,782, which compares with $1,332,
567 on Oct. 31, 1926.Class A stock has preference for cumulative dividends at the annual rate of $1.20 a share over class B and participates with that stock on a 40-60 basis in any further disbursements after class B has received $1.60 a share in any one year.Dividends at the rate of $1.20 are being paid on class A, but none has been paid on class B.Class A stock deserves a fair rating, but is somewhat speculative at present.

John Arden, returning from the morning, heard the night watchman's voice when two men, as Mrs. Stender, without being aware of the mysterious disappearance of her husband, had been in the room last night. Arden was alone at the time, and was about to go to bed. He had just been invited to share dinner with the three friends and a conference in Arden's study. On leaving, the three friends had a chance of seeing the man who had been in the room.

Lady Doone said: "Are you very after a marked pen. Love entails. I don't like to you to London tomorrow. I am not exactly pleased. First be considered. Wicked ways have before giving testimony. Arden was not a remark does not a from refusing his. "James," said one of my cards.

Fantastic Garb Being Fashioned by Society for Twelfth Night Ball

There's been much racking of society's brains for some time as to the important question of what to wear to the Twelfth Night Ball. I understand that the ingenious ones have concocted gorgeous outfits for the affair, which is to take place tonight at the Stevens hotel. Seeing as how Atlantis is a place "as never was," most of the guests of the Twelve Knights are going to go, as the psychologists say, all do at fancy dress parties, according to their suppressed inclinations. One of the costumes, piled by harried applicants for appropriate and unusual costumes, conceived a giddily, looking starfish arrangement, all decked out in tinsel, as his idea of the apt garment.

The committee, which includes among its prime movers J. Russell Purgan, Gilbert E. Porter, III, Joseph T. Ryerson, John W. Root, John R. Winterbottom, Barrett Wendell, Cyrus McCormick, Rosecrans Baldwin, and J. Allen Haines, cloaks with mystery the secret of the decorations, but will, no doubt, rival its previous successes. Noble B. Judah, who was a member of the committee in former years, will be missed, and Mrs. Haines, who was always one of the ring-leaders, looking merrier, is laid low at St. Luke's and will be unable to attend.

Some of the dinner parties before the party include the large one the John B. Winterbottoms and the Walter Paschkes are to give at the Petruska club, the Robert J. Thornes' and the James Ward Thornes' at the Casino, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe's, the Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—[Special.]—The wives of only four of the Supreme court justices were present at the reception in the White House, given tonight in compliment to the judiciary by President and Mrs. Coolidge. They were Mrs. Taft, wife of the chief justice; Mrs. Pierce Butler, Mrs. Edward Terry Sanford, and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone. Scores of minor officials, army and navy officers, congressmen, and members of resident society and their wives formed an unusually large company for this conservative and usually small reception.

Mrs. Deneen, wife of the senator from Chicago, was at home this afternoon for the first time this season. Her debutante daughter, Miss Blina Day Deneen, was at home with her mother also for the first time.

Miss Florence Lowden, daughter of former Gov. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, arrived today to spend ten days with Mrs. John W. Dwight, wife of the former representative in congress from New York.

Wake up!... Muffets for breakfast!

Do you wonder that even the laziest, sleepest member of the family responds to the call? For here's what a Muffet is!

Size and shape of a patty shell—and as light! Its butternut-browned, crinkly round top is a promise of crunchy crispness—a promise kept by every spoonful that crumbles in your mouth, from the first to the last! It's pure whole wheat, cooked, drawn out to a fine-spun, filmy-thin ribbon, wound round and round—three whole yards of it!—baked, toasted. Vitamins, calories, minerals, roughage (bran). Easy digestibility!

And—a breakfast dish that's just especially good to eat! Serve with cream and sugar. Or add fruit, fresh-sliced, stewed or preserved. If you don't know your Muffets yet, promise them to yourself right now for tomorrow morning!

"A GOOD BAD MINTURN WOMAN"

Imitation Has a Fascination for the Very Young

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON REYNS
"I'm certainly disappointed in Sally," said her mother to me one day. "I had always thought she was a child with strong individuality and the quality of leadership, and here she is imitating Bobby's way of talking, like any little monkey. In fact, she's like a chameleon—she takes color in her manner and her expressions from each steady playmate she has." And her mother looked really disgusted.

That is a very common trait of childhood—imitation—though more pronounced in some than in others. "Multiplication is vexation," goes the old nursery rhyme, but I'm sure many a mother and father would like to change it to "imitation is vexation" when they see the things their children do and hear the things their children say just because they've seen and heard some other child do and say them. Often it's the younger girl or boy who imitates the older—girl or boy—and it doesn't seem to matter to them whether the thing they imitate is nice or not—it's a question of whether it catches their fancy.

Take this current style in expressions among the boys which they're all imitating. For some reason that has its root in a small boy's being, it runs to food, starting with "O, banana oil," and going through "Hunka cheese," "Applesauce," "Eggs," "Fish cakes," and other equally elegant expressions. One boy starts it and the others imitate. So if some one says something which appeals to your son as being particularly lacking in point or being regarded as arrant nonsense, don't be surprised to hear it designated as "a piece of bologna."

There are many phases of this imitative instinct. It may show itself in the direction of hair ribbons or lack of them, special kinds of boyish bobs or pomades or braids, in manner of speech, or in a dozen and one other ways, like this "line" that the young girls feel they must have with the boys. Don't be discouraged when you see it, and don't think your child is a characterless follower of others. Most of the time you've got to ignore it and simply let it work itself out. If it shows itself in the copying of undesirable ways, of course you must stop it. Or if a child has too much you can usually check it by saying, "That's not your own self-talking—that's some one else—just your own real self." There are times when it needs to be checked.

She Has a Devoted Husband and a Home, but "Romance" Calls

BY DORIS BLAKE

"I have been married two years to a good, honest, hard working man whom I would rather die than hurt. He loves me with a blind take-for-granted worship. He is faithful to me and never dreams I might be anything else to him."

"He has forgotten, however, that romance is just as necessary in marriage as it is in courtship. He never remembers to bring me presents, nor things like that although I must say he records each month that we were married on such a day and on that tenth of the month we go to a show. He is proud of me, delights in showing me off to his friends and guests at me with a queer light in his eyes, especially when I am at my best in company."

"However, something has happened. I have met a man who is a common home wrecker, who is in love with me."

"And so on, and so on, and so on!"

Signed, "HISBROKEN."

The trouble folks go to make trouble for themselves! What in the name of all that's good and holy is romance in marriage if it isn't worship that "Hisbroken" is getting? The woman I know who would give her eyes for just one of those idolatrous glances!

And if anything could be more sentimental than romance, it is the month, month after month, on which you were married, well I ask you, what does the woman want? I know what she needs, and it isn't a pair of arms that tenderly about her, either. What can any woman hope for more than a devoted slave who delights in showing her off?

"He's too good to you, Hisbroken, and I hope you get the man who is a common home wrecker. I hope he's got a fancy one that you'll be crying out loud for the powers that be to send you a common one."

None of these wreckers are common, you know. Not to the woman in the case. They couldn't be and sustain her vanity. It's only after you've put them to a few tests, such as paying

If you are black bored, there really doesn't seem to be much help for your ennui these days. Especially in this time of the period gown for evening wear. Look about you at any "first night," and it is really remarkable to see how many of the younger women have chosen these gowns, with skirt of black tulle and bodice of either black satin or black velvet.

The uniformity of material is only less significant than the uniformity of line. The slanting line of the corsage combined with a skirt dipping far down one side—we see this evening formula repeated again and again. There is only one variation possible, apparently, and this is concerned with the question of the skirt. Shall this be arranged in tiers or otherwise?

We show you today a version of the black period gown that solves the skirt question by an effective division of sentiment. In the back we encounter two tiers to contrast with a plain front. The latter, however, is compensated for its deprivation by four red roses following the upward side movement of the tiers.

If the heroine of the sketch were a casual sort of person she would not follow the cue of those roses on the skirt by jewelry or other accessories. But she is meticulous and therefore she echoes the flowers by bracelet and necklace of red stones, and she outlines her opera pumps of black satin with an edge of the same red stones.

It is only, in fact, by some touch of color introduced through the accessories that we can surmount the black evening gown.

the rent and the meat bills, that they show up streaks of commonness that are surprising.

I'm sure I don't know what other remedy there is for a woman with an insatiable appetite for romance and an eye that can't see it spread out before her unless it is to run away from it.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Looking Out for Himself.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 16 and have been keeping company with a fellow 'Hisbroken' for some time. I like him and I see him twice a week. He insists I go with him only."

"I do not care to do this as I have other boy friends I like to go out with. I feel I'll lose his friendship if I go with the other boys."

Jay.

His suggestion is all in his favor, Jay. If you agree and then he changes his mind, where do you come in? You are all alone, having given up your friends for him. In self-defense you can't agree to it, dear.

Difficult.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a certain fellow, but can never get a chance to say anything to him, as we are both on the job when I see him. Will you tell me how I can get a date with him?"

"Anxious."

The prospects aren't encouraging, Anxious. There is little opportunity for making a good impression when you aren't thrown in contact with each other.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them. My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. Bright Sayings of the Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON REYNS

"I'm certainly disappointed in Sally," said her mother to me one day. "I had always thought she was a child with strong individuality and the quality of leadership, and here she is imitating Bobby's way of talking, like any little monkey. In fact, she's like a chameleon—she takes color in her manner and her expressions from each steady playmate she has." And her mother looked really disgusted.

That is a very common trait of childhood—imitation—though more pronounced in some than in others. "Multiplication is vexation," goes the old nursery rhyme, but I'm sure many a mother and father would like to change it to "imitation is vexation" when they see the things their children do and hear the things their children say just because they've seen and heard some other child do and say them. Often it's the younger girl or boy who imitates the older—girl or boy—and it doesn't seem to matter to them whether the thing they imitate is nice or not—it's a question of whether it catches their fancy.

Take this current style in expressions among the boys which they're all imitating. For some reason that has its root in a small boy's being, it runs to food, starting with "O, banana oil," and going through "Hunka cheese," "Applesauce," "Eggs," "Fish cakes," and other equally elegant expressions. One boy starts it and the others imitate. So if some one says something which appeals to your son as being particularly lacking in point or being regarded as arrant nonsense, don't be surprised to hear it designated as "a piece of bologna."

There are many phases of this imitative instinct. It may show itself in the direction of hair ribbons or lack of them, special kinds of boyish bobs or pomades or braids, in manner of speech, or in a dozen and one other ways, like this "line" that the young girls feel they must have with the boys. Don't be discouraged when you see it, and don't think your child is a characterless follower of others. Most of the time you've got to ignore it and simply let it work itself out. If it shows itself in the copying of undesirable ways, of course you must stop it. Or if a child has too much you can usually check it by saying, "That's not your own self-talking—that's some one else—just your own real self." There are times when it needs to be checked.

She Has a Devoted Husband and a Home, but "Romance" Calls

BY DORIS BLAKE

"I have been married two years to a good, honest, hard working man whom I would rather die than hurt. He loves me with a blind take-for-granted worship. He is faithful to me and never dreams I might be anything else to him."

"He has forgotten, however, that romance is just as necessary in marriage as it is in courtship. He never remembers to bring me presents, nor things like that although I must say he records each month that we were married on such a day and on that tenth of the month we go to a show. He is proud of me, delights in showing me off to his friends and guests at me with a queer light in his eyes, especially when I am at my best in company."

"However, something has happened. I have met a man who is a common home wrecker, who is in love with me."

"And so on, and so on, and so on!"

Signed, "HISBROKEN."

The trouble folks go to make trouble for themselves! What in the name of all that's good and holy is romance in marriage if it isn't worship that "Hisbroken" is getting? The woman I know who would give her eyes for just one of those idolatrous glances!

And if anything could be more sentimental than romance, it is the month, month after month, on which you were married, well I ask you, what does the woman want? I know what she needs, and it isn't a pair of arms that tenderly about her, either. What can any woman hope for more than a devoted slave who delights in showing her off?

"He's too good to you, Hisbroken, and I hope you get the man who is a common home wrecker. I hope he's got a fancy one that you'll be crying out loud for the powers that be to send you a common one."

None of these wreckers are common, you know. Not to the woman in the case. They couldn't be and sustain her vanity. It's only after you've put them to a few tests, such as paying
